Criticize Sales Tax Administration

Experts in Report to The Senate

HARRISBURG (UP)—A private firm of management experts hired by the administration of Gov. George M. Leader reported today that administration of the 3 per cent sales tax is improving but still is inadequate.

The report was relayed to the state Senate as that chamber tried to hammer out amendments to the sales tax law.

The 50-page report made by the consulting firm of McKinsey & Co.? of Washington, D C., said that although some improvements were made since last October, the Sales and Use Tax Bureau still faced six major problems in obtaining the full revenue to be derived from the tax.

The six difficulties cited are: Shortcomings in the sales tax law, informing taxpayers as to their liabilities under the law, establishment of efficient central office procedures, thorough investigation of returns, recruiting and training sufficient personnel, and maintaining efficient bureau administrators.

The firm said that standing in the way of both the tax collectors and the taxpayers is the complexity of the law itself; that the many exemptions to the tax make it very difficult to establish a firm master list of persons required to pay the tax, and overlappings with other taxes require numerous definitions and rulings.

The company found that efforts to acquaint the taxpayers with their obligations were inadequate; several bulletins "by no means simple, clear or comprehensive" were issued by Dec. 1956, but no future issuances had been planned.

In processing of returns, the survey showed that in January three "serious" backlogs existed in the bureau's central office:

The machine accounting operations were seriously behind schedule, no central taxpayer record existed from which the entire records of a taxpayer could be found in a single place, and "irregular" returns (those with differences between the amount shown on the return and the attached check) diverted from the routine processing. were piling up at a rate of 40.000 a month.

Salaries Top Returns

The report also said that field investigators assigned to track down delinquent taxes were not producing. In Nov. 1956, the field force brought in a total of $123,000, while their salaries. together with supporting clerical help, amounted to over $200,000.

However, the report said that the figure of $284,000 for January, 1957 "showed significant improvement." The inefficiency of the field workers was laid to insufficient training but the report also

Allocations from Community Fund Are Announced

Allocations from the 1957 Monessen Community Fund were announced today by Campaign Chairman Edward Lhota.

Sharing in the money will be 13 charities and non profit groups.

Lhota said the allocations were based on 84.49 per cent of the original budget. He said that percentage constituted the figure reached in the recent campaign.

The Community Fund had set $32,000 as the 1957 goal. A total of $27,037.04 was actually collected.

These allocations have been approved by the Board of Directors of the Community Fund:

Westmoreland Home for Aged, $422.45; Arthritis and Rehumatism, $84.49; Westmoreland Children's Aid Society, $211.22; Westmoreland-Fayette Council Boy Scouts, $3,802.05; Salvation Army, $7,987.68; Monessen Civic Library, $2,957.15; National Travelers Aid, $21.12.

Also Volunteers of America, $84.49; Westmoreland County Cancer Fund, $1,267.35; Monessen Girl Scouts, $1,520 82; Monessen Civic Center, $5,491.85; Blinded Veterans Association $21.12; and Pennsylvania United Fund, $84.49.

Applications for Local Teaching Posts Received

At a meeting last night, the Monessen School Board accepted four applications for teaching positions in local public schools. Submitting applications were:

Agnes K. Jenkins, of Stockdale, elementary grades; Arnold Adams, of Uniontown, general science; Billie Utterback, of Monessen, elementary grades, and Joseph Tedesco, of Belle Vernon, woodwork, sheetmetal, plastics, drafting and general science.

The board spent some 45 minutes opening 89 bids for supplies, equipment and furniture for the 1957-58 school term. Following, the board authorized Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent, and the property supplies committee, to prepare an analysis of the bids and submit them for action at a special meeting of the board scheduled for April 2.

Solicitor David H. Weiss was authorized to advertise the re-enactment of the current tax levies, such as the five-tenths of one per cent wage tax, three per cent amusement tax and the one per cent property transfer tax.

According to Dr. Pallone, the estimated revenue from the wage tax for 157-58 should amount to $145,000, a gain of $10,000 over the current income; amusement tax, $3,000 for next year compared to $4,000 this year, and property transfer tax, $18,000 next year as against $15,000 this year.

Beck to Testify, He Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dave Beck, boss of the giant Teamsters Union, shed his seeming reluctance today and offered to appear promptly before the Senate rackets investigators.

But Beck, the target of charges concerning his $160,000 home in Seattle and his personal finances, hinted he might take refuge in the Fifth Amendment, if so advised by his lawyer.

The Teamsters president, who flew to Europe while the rackets committee was trying to reach him, told a news conference at his plush Seattle lakeside home Tuesday night that the transaction involving his home was "clean cut" and "above board."

To Call DA

Beck said he would be "ready to go" whenever the committee wants him after a "routine" visit to his doctor today. The committee has indicated it may put Beck on the stand after finishing its current hearings on Portland, Ore., vice, probably by the end of this week.

The hearings continued today with Clyde C. Crosby, Teamster organizer for Oregon, recalled to the stand.

Later in the day the committee expected to call up William M. Langley, district attorney of Multnomah County, Ore., in which Portland is located.

Langley was slated to face questions based on tape recordings purporting to show him in cahoots with gambler cronies of Teamster Union officials in Portland.

Hear Tape Recordings

The committee was expected to play a portion of the tape recordings in the Senate caucus room where its hearings are creating daily sensations. But some of the recordings were called too "dirty" and will be played only to senators privately—if at all.

Crosby, in two previous days of testimony. denied or presented another side of charges by Portland racketeer James B. Elkins, who said that Teamster officials backed Langley for office and then sent two Seattle gamblers Joseph P. McLaughlin and Thomas E. Maloney, to organize the city's vice and gambling.

Langley was the second Oregon public official to face the special committee's questions. Portland Mayor Terry D. Schrunk left town Tuesday, refusing to take a second lie detector test after balking at some of the questions on the first test that he himself had requested. Schrunk, who was sheriff of Multnomah County for seven years before becoming mayor of Portland Jan. 11, accused the committee staff and the U.S. Secret Service of trying to frame him with "tricky questions" arranged so he would flunk the test.

Ike Plans Slow Trip to Bermuda On Navy Cruiser

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today announced that he expects to leave by Navy cruiser from Norfolk, Va. late Thursday for a leisurely cruise to Bermuda where he is due March 20.

The President, who has been suffering from a head cold, cough and inflammation of the left ear for some time, had hoped to go to Florida for a few days prior to his Bermuda conference next week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

He told his news conference today, however, that he had decided not to go to Florida, but would seek out sunshine aboard a Navy cruiser during what he called a very slow trip to Bermuda.

He is scheduled to reach Bermuda next Wednesday. His conferences with Macmillan begin the following day.

Mr. Eisenhower said he plans to sail from Norfolk late Thursday unless some unexpected event forces a change in his schedule.

The Chief Executive seemed in much better physical shape today than at his news conference last Thursday. Last week he was suffering from a hearing difficulty due to inflammation of the eustachian tube of his left ear. He also coughed repeatedly and displayed hoarseness.

Today his voice was stronger. He gave no indication of the hearing difficulty and his color was much improved.

District Airman Killed in Crash Of Auto-Truck

A Monongahela airman was one of two killed in an auto-truck collision in Rapid City, S. D., Monday night.

A-3C Malcolm George Hyslop, 19, son of Mrs. Louise Hyslop, of 405 North Main street, and a fellow airman were victims. The other victim was A-2C James T McLaughlin, 24, of Lehighton, Pa.

Police said McLaughlin was driving the auto. A third occupant was not seriously injured. Reports said the auto plowed into the back of a truck that had stopped for a traffic light.

Hyslop was born in New Eagle. He was a 1956 graduate of Monongahela High School and left for service on June 30, 1956.

An only child, he is survived by his mother and his father, Malcolm Russell Hyslop, serving in Germany with the U. S. Army.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

$60,000 Bond Issue Voted for Speers

A $60,000 bond issue to finance a proposed street improvement program was approved yesterday during a special referendum in Speers.

Judge of Elections Gertrude Wolfe said the issue was approved. 184 to 110. All registered voters were entitled to cast ballots in the referendum.

Council Wants Study On Fluoridation Issue

Monessen City Council this morning indicated it wants to study all the facts before making a decision on whether or not to recommend fluoridation of the community's water supply.

Council was asked in a letter from the Monessen Junior Women's Club to express its views on the possible fluoridation of water. The Club is in the process of organizing a committee to see if there is a public desire to obtain fluoridation.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente said the fluoridation problem "needs much study" before a pro or con decision can be reached.

"Council certainly wants to do what is best for the community," he said.

Routine Meeting

Council's meeting this morning was one of the most routine on record. Outside of the fluoridation issue and the usual requests for sewers and decisions on properties by residents little else transpired.

The only matter that required any amount of time was the problem dealing with the property belonging to the Andrew Prokopovitch family on Myers avenue. The City has started condemnation proceedings in order to use part of the unused property for a right-of-way.

The family contends it has not been offered the true value of the property by the City. Council advised the family to have its real estate representatives meet with the City's representative and Andrew Kritsky, of the Westmoreland County Tax Revision Board, to try to "work out" the problem.

Residents who appeared and requested sewers were told that Council has set Friday, March 22, as a meeting date to consider all such requests.

Harry Curran Is Supervisor

Harry Curran, of Webster, has been appointed to the Rostraver Township Board of Supervisors, it was learned today.

Curran will succeed Robert Brown, also of Webster, who resigned last month due to ill health.

Curran's appointment was made by the two remaining supervisors, Edward Kirkpatrick and John Turner. His term will expire at the end of the year.

However Curran has announced that he will seek a full term in balloting this year.

Both Curran and Brown are Democrats.

St. Cajetan to Build School; Buys Property

The Rev. Nunzio Pirulli, pastor of St. Cajetan Catholic Church, today announced the purchase of two properties near the church located at 618 Knox avenue, Monessen.

He said the church has acquired the properties of Nicholas Polkabla at 624 Knox avenue, and George Evan at 636 Knox avenue.

The cost of the two properties has not been revealed.

The church plans to build an elementary school when sufficient property is available. Negotiations to purchase additional property or properties near the church are now in progress, it was stated.

To Use Force if Egypt Returns To Gaza Strip

By UNITED PRESS

Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion said today that Israel "reserves freedom of action" should Egypt return to the Gaza Strip.

He left no doubt that Israel would feel free to resort to military measures should political negotiations fail to settle the dispute over control of the refugee-packed strip, and he warned:

"If the time comes when action is appropriate and necessary, the government of Israel will not, of course, give prior notice of its action."

Almost simultaneous with Ben-Gurion's statement before the Israeli Knesset (parliament), United Nations Assistant Secretary General Ralph Bunche announced in Cairo that Egypt will take over civil administration of the Gaza Strip.

"However," Bunche said, "it is up to the Egyptian authorities to announce when the take over will take place."

No Troops Yet

Previously, informed sources in Cairo had said that Egypt soon will send a team of civil administrators into the Gaza Strip but does not plan to send in troops at this time.

The diametrically opposed positions of Cairo and Jerusalem touched off new fears in Paris and London of a Mideast shooting war and posed a new test of United States and United Nations diplomatic skills.

Editorial attacks against President Eisenhower reappared in Paris and London newspapers.

The crisis was heightened by an announcement in Gaza that "an unidentified group of men" Tuesday night blew up a section of the railroad leading to Israel and cut off telephone communications between Gaza and Israel.

Arab refugees in the Gaza Strip have protested the use of the railroad to bring in U.N. relief supplies via Israel.

U.N. Assistant Secretary General Ralph Bunche called on Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo as Ben-Gurion was speaking and made a direct attempt to settle the Gaza crisis.

Bunche had with him a message from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold regarding Egypt's announcement it will take over administration of the Gaza Strip "forthwith" — an announcement that plunged the Mideast once again into cirsis.

Ben-Gurion survived two motions of non-confidence posed by his opposition political parties after reassuring the lawmakers Israeal would not take lying down Egypt's return to the Gaza Strip.

Ben-Gurion won the votes although one of his own coalition parties, the Ahdut Avoda, walked out of the chamber.

Ben-Gurion laid part of the blame on "big powers" he did not name and sharply criticized the United Nations for putting its prestige and the feelings of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser ahead of Middle East peace

He ended his speech with the statement that if the time came "when action by Israel would be

U. S. Submits New Middle East Plans to UN

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower revealed today that the United States has submitted to the United Nations new proposals for dealing with the Middle East situation.

But the President made it clear at his news conference that it is up to the U.N. to take the lead in making arrangements for negotiations aimed at settling problems of the troubled Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower gave no details of the U.S. proposals which he said have been communicated to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. But he said Hammarskjold plans to leave for the Middle East Saturday.

The President said he had not heard of late news reports from Cairo to the effect that the U.N. and Egypt had agreed that Egypt will take over civil administration of the Gaza Strip.

A newsman asked the President whether he would like to see Egypt delay plans to take over civil administration of Gaza.

Without replying directly, the President said he would like to see arrangements made which the U.N. and Hammarskjold believe would be most effective in bringing out negotiations to settle Middle Eastern problems.

City Officials Puzzled Over Saturday Hours

Although Monessen City Hall has been closed for business on Saturdays for many years, the House of Representatives yesterday defeated legislation to allow Allegheny County and third class cities, such as Monessen, to close their city hall offices on Saturday.

A survey by The Daily Independent around City Hall this morning revealed that City officials were and are unaware that an existing law prohibits the closing of city hall offices on Saturdays.

City Solicitor David H. Weiss said he will make a study of the city and state codes to see just how the law reads.

In Harrisburg yesterday the House voted 120-68 against a bill sponsored by Reps. John J. Vaughan and Willard F. Agnew Jr., both Allegheny County Republicans, to allow certain offices of the county court house in Pittsburgh to close on Saturdays.

Rep. Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny) led the attack on the bill contending it was "unsound and not in the public interest."

Vaughan argued the prothonotary and recorder of deeds offices were now open only three hours on Saturdays and the legislation would merely make their short hours legal.

A bill by Reps James S. Bowman and Robert S. Ogilvie, Dauphin County Republicans, to authorize third class city councils to close city offices on Saturdays was defeated 93-85. The legislation would affect all cities other than Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton.

School Board Here Suggests Stricter Disciplinary Methods

Stricter disciplinary measures should be meted out to students who disobey school rules and regulations, the Monessen School Board decided at a regular meeting last night.

One director, Alex Kachmarik, favors applying the paddle to students who "misbehave in school." Director Romeo Furio said he also sees "nothing wrong" in paddling students when they deserve it.

Directors John Lancas, president, and John Kossar, Dr. Joseph M. Dudas and Nicholas Cullen all agreed that strict disciplinary measures should be taken to chastise erring students but declined to agree that paddling would be the correct method of reprimanding.

Last night's discussion was an aftermath of a report submitted by Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools, that two local High School youths handed out a severe beating to an "innocent" Donora youth following the Monessen-Donora basketball game here Feb. 15.

The local youths involved were on the verge of being expelled, but the intervention of their parents and the promise of the youths to follow "all school rules to the letter" prevented such action. However, Dr. Pallone pointed out if the youths violate any school rules "now or in the future, they will be expelled."

"We just won't tolerate this sort of thing," the superintendent declared.

The directors agreed.

Kachmarik said there "isn't enough fear in children today. They're not afraid of anything . . . and they're not afraid of the consequences.

"It seems the teachers are reluctant to hand out disciplinary measures because they believe they don't have the backing of their superiors."

Dr. Dudas said he believes that parents should "take a hand in disciplining their children."

"In most cases," Dr. Dudas said, "delinquent children come from delinquent parents. Children today don't seem to have enough — or any respect — for their parents. Certainly, if they don't respect their parents, how can we expect them to respect their teachers.

Lancas said the teacher's manual tells how far a teacher can go in meting out punishment.

"If teachers stay within the manual, I'm sure their supervisors and also the directors will back them to the limit," he remarked.

The majority of the directors stated they preferred stricter disciplinary methods but that applying the paddle will not be the lone answer to the problem.

Kossar said he knows of instances "where a teacher scolded a student and the student's parents gave the teacher a severe talking to. I maintain it is the parents' duty to first train the child.

"In most cases, teachers have from 25 to 30 students in their

Mrs. Amanda Reppert

Mrs. Amanda Reppert Honor Guest on 93rd Birthday

The 93rd birthday anniversary of Mrs. Amanda Reppert, longtime resident of Belle Vernon and one of the oldest persons in the community, was observed on Monday, March 11.

Mrs. Reppert makes her home with her son-in-law, Harry L. Molter, of Brown street, and was taken by surprise when 42 relatives and friends gathered at the home in the evening for a social time. The celebration was arranged by the Good Fellowship Group of the First Methodist Church of which Mrs. John Kimball is president. The guest list included several neighbors.

Games were played and there was a program of entertainment. Mrs. Arthur Sellars sang "Perfect Day" and Mrs. Rose Kimball entertained with whistling and singing specialties.

Luncheon was served at a table centered with three large birthday cakes.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Reppert opened her many gifts, which included a box of candy from the Fellowship. She received many flowers, birthday cards and greetings.

Telephone calls were forthcoming from her son Edward W. Reppert in the state of California, her son-in-law, Harry S. Robinson, who is vacationing in Florida and from brothers in Masontown.

A prized birthday remembrance was a letter written by Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, which was read to the guests.

Mrs. Reppert is keen of mind and reminisced with her friends of her marriage 75 years ago on March 10 in Braddock. She was the mother of four children, two daughters, both of whom are deceased, Emma Mae Reppert Robinson and Mary Reppert Molter and two sons, Edward, of California state and Curtis L. Reppert, of Belle Vernon. She has five grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

On Sunday Mrs. Reppert was an honored guest at a dinner held at the home of Miss Edna Reppert, of Main street. At that time she ate her 93rd birthday dinner from the same table on which her wedding dinner was served 75 years ago.

Fire Auxiliary Plans Mothers' Day Banquet

The Ladies Auxiliary to Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2 met Monday evening in the fire hall. The opening was conducted by Chaplain Mrs. Rose Beazell and included the pledge of allegiance, the Lord's Prayer and the singing of America. She also read an article, "Do Something".

President Dorothy Wendel was in charge and there were 42 members present. New members welcomed were Ann Guth, Doreen Wright, Bertha Forsberg and Sue LeCompte. One new member was voted into the group, Edith Sellaro.

The special prize was won by Rose Checchi and the auxiliary prize by Althea Heath.

Plans were discussed for the Mother's Day banquet on May 13.

After the closing prayer there was a social hour. Winning prizes were Ruth Lutes, Hazel Isenberg, Rose Checchi, Babe Kuhn, Sue Horan, Rhonda Cramer, Jerry Curcio, Wilma Warbutton, Bertha MacDonald, Harriet Neil, Rose Beazell, Adda Jackson, Adelmina Schmidt, Evelyn Nichols, Ann Guth, Hannah Stotler, Dorothy Wendel, Mary Marasco and Althea Heath. Luncheon was served.

The guest prize was won by Margaret Callahan. The March committee in charge included Gertrude Fleming, Rose Teano, Leona Roberts, Doris Wall and Alice Smith.

Ladies Auxiliary Meets Monday At Fire Hall

The Washington Township Fire Company Ladies Auxiliary met Monday evening in the fire hall and the opening was conducted by Chaplain Edna Axton. Mrs. Honor Hamer, president, was in charge.

A donation was voted for the Boy Scout camping fund and for the mushball team being sponsored by the firemen.

The ways and means committee reported a successful party last Monday and announced plans for another one next Monday. The charter was closed.

It was reported that Mrs. Ruth Palfrey is recovering from a recent illness at her home after being hospitalized.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Sue Brazzon and Mrs. Helen Levar. The next hostesses will be Ann Banjor and Sue Mitchell.

Senior Catholic Daughters Meet; Plan Communion

The Senior Court Catholic Daughters of America met Monday evening at the St. Sebastian school rooms. The session followed the recitation of the rosary led by Mrs. Maude McCauley.

The business session was conducted by Grand Regent Virginia Abbott. A donation was voted to the Easter Seal campaign and for the luncheon honoring Supreme Regent Frances Maher, on April 6, at the Penn Albert Hotel.

The Court of Charleroi invited the women to attend a class initiation on March 31. A report was given on ill members. Mrs. Genevieve Conn and Mrs. Catherine Mossburg.

The women will receive Holy Communion next Sunday at the 9 a. m. mass.

The Rev. David Fisher spoke on "Vocations" since March is designated as Vocation month.

The stationary sales are being continued.

There was no social hour due to the Lenten season.

Mrs. Dolores Jones Entertains Club

Mrs. Dolores Jones, of Market street, was hostess to members of the 8 "C" Deals at her home Monday evening.

Winning prizes were Ann Jones, a guest, Mrs. Sara Worry and Mrs. Sara Bednarczyk. The floating prize was won by Anna Mae Basile.

Luncheon was served and the club will meet again in two weeks.

Firemen Buy Walkie-Talkie Radio Sets at Session Here

North Belle Vernon Fire Company voted to purchase two walkie-talkie radio sets Monday evening at the regular business session held in the fire hall.

There was a demonstration of the equipment and both sets can be used independently. The purpose is to have direct communication between firemen working at the fire truck and the men, who are close to the actual fire.

President Vic Silvestro and Vice President Louis Ceccarelli were in charge. The Belle Vernon Public Library Association paid off the remaining $300 of indebtedness on the section of the fire hall used for the library and it is now debt free.

The fire company made a substantial payment on the building mortgage.

Plans were announced for fire practice next Monday evening at 7 p. m. It was also reported that group pictures of the company will soon be ready for distribution. The next meeting was planned for March 25.

WCTU Meets Yesterday at Miller Home

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Miller, of Grant street, with Mrs. L. G. Krepps as leader. The theme of the meeting was "Faith".

The program began with group singing of "How Firm A Foundation" and Mrs. Edna Dreyer read the scripture from Hebrews.

After sentence prayers the group sang "Take My Life and Let It Be". Mrs. Krepps read an article on "Faith" and the group sang "Lead On O King Eternal". Mrs. Miller read an article, "Moderate Smoking Scientifically Analyzed". Mrs. Elmer Finley read, "Cocktails in the UN". Mrs. Ewing Brown read, "How Alcohol Effects the Brain" and Mrs. Arthur Sellars read "It Doesn't Make Sense".

A short business session followed the meeting.

Mrs. Ella Leithold, of Henry street, spent the weekend visiting relatives in Canonsburg.

Jewish Mayor of Dublin in U. S. Tomorrow

(This is the first of two stories on Dublin's Jewish Lord Mayor.)

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UP)—It takes something near a miracle to get an Irishman to postpone a St. Patrick's parade and it is wondrous strange to see B'nai B'rith working hand in glove with the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

But then the leprechauns must have had a hand in it anyway when the Irish city of Dublin, 95 per cent Roman Catholic, picked Jewish Robert Briscoe as their lord mayor.

Briscoe comes to the United States tomorrow for a six-week visit and he is more popular than "Abie's Irish Rose." Some 2,100 invitations were pressed on him but he had to settle for a 40-city tour coast-to-coast, shuttling from Temples Israel to the Gaelic League.

A man with fine humor, Briscoe is delighed with his double role but he has made it plain that he is giving Ireland "absolute priority."

"I definitely consider myself the Irish mayor of an Irish city," he said. "The fact that I am Jewish is an interesting sidelight and a wonderful comment on the Irish people who elected me.

"I will devote my first day at every point to anything of an Irish societies. The second day will be given over to the United Jewish Appeal and other Jewish functions."

The first big affair will be the march of New York's Irish up Fifth Avenue next Saturday. Briscoe will sit in the reviewing stand with Gov. Averell Harriman and Mayor Robert Wagner.

St. Patrick's Day itself comes on Sunday this year and Boston's Irish had planned to have their parade on Saturday, too. But when they heard that Dublin's lord mayor could make it on Monday, they cheerfully postponed it to that day.

Briscoe is booked for dozens of speeches and he has indicated his subject matter will range from brotherhood between men to tourists for Ireland, from the appeal for help for Israel to the superlative qualities of Irish whiskey.

He is an Orthodox Jew who follows the dietary laws against eating pork and shellfish. Otherwise he does not require specially prepared food and that word has gone out to the banquet arrangers.

Bills Will Spell Out 'Civil Rights' For Labor Unions

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Legislatire has received a series of Republican-sponsored bills designed to spell out "civil rights" for labor union members.

The House legislation was introduced jointly by Reps. Richard L. Adams (R-Berks), Willard F. Agnew Jr. (R-Allegheny), and H. Jack Seltzer (R-Lebanon). Agnew said the legislation would:

—Define the civil rights of labor union members and protect those rights.

—Require unions to file copies of their constitution and by-laws with the Labor Relations Board, submit annual financial statements, and give financial records and constitutions to union members.

—Regulate union welfare and pension funds by requiring statements filed with the state Banking Department.

—Make "black listing" of members by unions and management a misdemeanor.

Agnew flatly predicted the legislation would pass the Assembly and said he "hoped' it would be viewed favorably by Gov. George M. Leader. However, he said no Democratic support was solicited in the House nor had Republican leaders been approached to give party sanction to the bills.

The Pittsburgh attorney said the legislation was not "right to work" measures but would be "statute of rights of labor organization members."

Budget Cuts Up to Congress—Ike

Can Only Cut Basic Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today if Congress wants to cut his budget substantially it will have to decide which government programs are to be cut, eliminated or slowed down.

The only place where substantial reductions can be made, he said, are in such basic programs as defense and security, veterans and farm benefits.

The Chief Executive made the statement at a crowded news conference attended by 236 reporters to indicate how strongly he felt about the House resolution, sponsored by Democrats, calling for substantial reduction of his $71.8 billion budget and asking him where and how it can be cut.

If any great cuts are to be made, he said, it will be necessary to reduce, eliminate, or slow down such basic programs as defense and security, veterans benefits and the farm program.

Otherwise, he said, there could be no great savings because only a small percentage of spending planned for fiscal 19[illegible] are susceptible to administrative savings.

Other news highlights of Mr. Eisenhower's news conference:

—He said that if the United States decides to make aid available to Poland, he will ask Congress for the power to make loans to the Polish state should there be any legal ban on such loans.

As for reports of congressional grumbling because of his inaccessibility to members of the house and senate, the President said he had never received any complaints.

—He insisted that he had no intention of injecting himself into internal affairs of the Republican Party in New York State by saying last week that if Leonard W. Hall, former GOP national chairman, ran for governor he would have a booster in the President Mr. Eisenhower said he would have nothing to do with a New York primary fight among Republicans, but he would give Hall his enthusiastic support if he became the candidate.

said the investigators were "to some extent unable to carry out their assignments because of extraneous interests and responsibilities."

The main area of difficulty appears to be in recruiting and training personnel and in establishing a clear operating procedure for handling the routine filing of returns, the company said.

In this respect, the report scored field office directors for their "inability...effectively to lay out the work to be done, to recruit and train a competent staff, to obtain needed supplies promptly, and, hence, to get the bureau's work done."

Some progress has been made by the bureau in all of its divisions, particularly since the initiation of the study early in January, the report said, adding that central office operations have been brought up to "a standard approaching efficiency."

"Much remains to be done to overcome the accumulation of work in these operations that had piled up prior to Jan. 1, but the level of performance has been raised to a reasonable standard," the report said.

In referring the report to the state Senate, Gov. Leader said the firm was paid $13,205 for work done to date, with an estimated $14,000 additional to be paid for subsequent services. Another $5,980 was paid to the Institute of Public Administration which cooperated in the study.

The report of the study, together with its cost, was requested by the Senate in a resolution authored by Sens. Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) and James S. Berger (R-Potter) and adopted by the chamber Feb. 12.

District Weekly Ends Publication After 57 Years

Fifty seven years of publication came to an end in Fayette City this week, with the closing of the Fayette City Journal.

Loss of help to the armed forces plus rising costs and lack of local support reportedly forced the decision to discontinue publication.

The weekly was established in 1900 by C. W. Beam and purchased in 1909 by E. D. Steinman and his wife, Clara. At the time, there were two or three girls employed setting type by hand and two men.

It soon became known as a family newspaper as the three sons of the Steinmans and their daughter, Mabel, took turns in assisting with the publication.

Harry Steinman, the youngest, left the employe of the Journal and now is associated with the Washington Observer. Herbert Steinman has his own printing shop in Masontown Edward Steinman is with the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The paper was leased to Allen Keenan in 1945 because of illness to Edward Steinman. Sr. Keenan gave up the newspaper to enter the ministry.

Mrs. Laura Strauser, daughter of the Steinmans, managed the plant for two years when in 1951, Henry M. Baddik, of Donora, purchased it.

The final issue was printed Friday, March 8.

The front part of the store will be devoted to men's furnishings, such as ties, shirts, hats, hose and jewelry. The rear of the store will feature men's sportswear, suits and outercoats. A new office has been installed in the extreme rear. All merchandise is to be openly displayed in illuminated display cases and racks..

The store will employe "open selling", meaning all merchandise in the store is displayed for viewing to make selecting easier.

Cramer, who has been in business at the present location since 1935, remodeled the exterior of the store in 1952 and again last year.

Associated with Cramer are Sundee Altemara, Eugene Moreau and Ronnie Salvino, all full-time salesmen, and Everett Pancook, E. Ben Sobzcak and Francis Seamon, part-time salesmen. A full-time window trimmer, Harold Williams, is also employed.

The store is affiliated with the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear and the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

Cramer has been a resident of Monessen all his life and is a graduate of local public schools and the University of Pittsburgh. He has been active in community affairs for many years.

He is past president of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce. Kiwanis Club, Kneseth Israel Congregation, B'nai B'rith and Monessen Community Fund. He has served as Monessen chairman of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital fund campaign, chairman of the Merchants Division of the local Chamber and a Chamber director for about 18 years

Currently, he is chairmen of the Chamber's membership and finance committee and the Monessen Parking Authority and Monessen Municipal Authority. He is also a director of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Monessen.

He belongs to the local Elks, Eagles and Kiwanis organizations.

Married, he is the father of two children, Louis and Brenda. The Cramer home is at 1447 Graham avenue.

Urges Increase in Gasoline Refund

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has been asked to increase the local municipalities' share of the state gasoline tax.

The legislation, offered both in the House and Senate, would hike the present 20 per cent of 4½ cents paid municipalities to a like percentage of 5½ cents.

However, the legislation could not be enacted if the Republican controlled Assembly follows through on plans to reduce the present six cents gasoline tax to five cents on May 31.

New Kensington To Get Armory Worth $305,000

The Army announced today that $305,000 has been allocated for the construction of an Armory in New Kensington.

The building will house two units of 400 men.

The Armory is one of 10 planned for Pennsylvania. Others will be located at Chester, Altoona, Franklin, Hazelton, Pottsville, Punxsutawney and York.

Each of these buildings will cost an estimated $227,000, with the exception of the Chester Armory which is listed at $410,000.

The Army's building program will embrace 26 states in all. A total of 56 new armories will be constructed at a total cost of $14,470,000.

Both Senator Edward Martin and Congressman Augustine B. Kelley were notified today of the Army building plans.

Wants Records of State to Be Open

HARRISBURG (UP) — House Republicans have sponsored legislation to make all records of the Commonwealth and its political subdivisions open for inspection at all times.

The bill would allow any person who has the "right to examine and inspect" public records to take extracts, copy or make photostats. Officials who prevented any citizen from inspecting or examining the records would be liable to a $100 fine.

Insurance Man Hits Compulsory Auto Policies

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Compulsory automobile liability insurance would force increased fares, claims and damage awards, according to J. C. Hafer, Reading, assistant vice president of American Casualties Companies.

"Most important," Hafer told the annual Insurance Day meeting here Tuesday, "compulsory auto insurance will not reduce the number of accidents."

The insurance man said he based his observations on Massachusetts and New York, where compulsory insurance laws are in effect. Since such laws do not cover out-of-state drivers, he said, protection still is not universal.

Hafer said the "threat" of such a law in Pennsylvania has been reduced by enactment of a recent law which permits insurance companies to issue policies protecting motorists against personal injury by uninsured drivers.

46 Soldiers Held For Conspiracy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—A federal grand jury has indicted 46 members of the 101st Airborne Division for conspiracy to defraud the government of $15,094 through a fake payroll scheme.

Among those named were Frank Butler III, 21, and Donald W. Dessaw, 20, both of Philadelphia; Joseph Demidio, 26, McKees Rocks, Pa.; Ronald L. Stopperich, 22, Canonsburg, Pa; Fred Hintermeyer, 20, Pittsburgh; Edward Robinson, 24, Chester, Pa., and Jack A. Aylor, Huntington, W. Va.

Would Vote on Horse Race Betting

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation which would permit a referendum to decide whether or not a majority of Pennsylvanians want pari - mutuel horse race betting was introduced in the General Assembly Tuesday.

The bill sponsored by Sens. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton); John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland); Joseph M. Barr (D-Allegheny), and Edward B. Watson (R-Bucks) would authorize a special referendum next November on the question "Do you favor horse racing with legal wagering within the Commonwealth."

Cars Collide at Intersection Here

Both drivers escaped injury last night in a two-car collision at the intersection of Sixth street and Reed avenue, Monessen.

City Police identified the drivers as Frederick A Echko, of 323 Crest avenue, Charleroi, and Vincenzo DeRose, of 309 Wood street, Belle Vernon.

According to the police report, a vehicle was illegally parked at the intersection, obscuring the view of both drivers. The accident occurred at 9:15 p. m.

Both cars were damaged in the mishap, police reported.

Judy's fiance, U.S. Air Force 1st Lt. John Watkins, 27, of Cleveland, Ohio, and two other U.S. pilots were killed Monday in a collision between an F84F Thunderjet and a T33 Shooting Star jet trainer.

Identity of Killed Child Still Mystery

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — An eight-year-old boy who police believed may have been the unidentified child whose battered body was discovered here 16 days ago was found alive Tuesday night in suburban Ardmore.

The child, Terry Lee Speece, and his father, Charles, an itinerant roofer of Lancaster, Pa., was the object of a nation-wide search after six Camden, N. J., residents reported the Speece child resembled the murder victim.

State police found the missing father and son on the Lancaster Pike in the suburban Philadelphia community.

They were taken to Philadelphia's City Hall where the Camden residents who had seen the father and son living in the New Jersey city were summoned and identified the two.

Speece, who told police he had been living in Newark, N. J., since leaving Camden on Feb. 23, was released by Philadelphia authorities in the custody of state police. The child was sent to Lancaster to Speece's estranged wife, Wilhelmina, and his grandmother.

The mother was brought here last week to view the body of the dead child in the morgue.

She said the body, found in a cardboard box in a thicket in the Fox Chase section of the city was not her son. Later the boy's grandmother and a Lancaster friend reported they had spoken to Speece and his son by telephone.

The finding of the Speece child left police back where they started in their efforts to establish the identity of the slain child.

The child, between four and six years old with blue eyes and light brown hair, was found nude, but wrapped in a green plain cotton blanket and stuffed in the carton on Feb. 26.

State Tax Package Delayed

Dent Hits Sales Tax Program

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislative approval of the Republican tax program for the next two years was set back until next week when Senate Democrats charged that proposed exemptions to industry would put most of the sales tax burden on private taxpayers.

The group of eight tax measures estimated to yield about $1.3-billion, had been placed in position for final passage today. Republican leaders, over protests of "steamroller tactics" from the Democrats, said they "want to get it done with" to assure final adjournment in June.

However, the GOP majority yielded to Democratic pressure to hold the bills over until Monday to give the Democrats opportunity to study the proposed taxes and prepare their own amendments.

Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland) said Tuesday that proposed exemptions to industry would result in individual taxpayers paying about 73 per cent of the sales tax.

"We are getting into the position where no one will pay the tax except the people themselves," Dent said.

Pointing out that new exemptions to manufacturers would be made retroactive to May, 1956, Dent said as a result "many persons who legally paid taxes on transactions which are exempted by this bill would be entitled to refunds which will in effect be bonanzas."

The exemption would be extended by the proposed amendment to include all manufacturing, mining and research equipment used in production from the first stage to the final packaging.

Withheld Payments

Dent said many large industries "with representatives in Harrisburg" have withheld payment of the tax in anticipation of the retroactive exemption now proposed, and he suggested that this might be one reason why the tax yield has not been as high as expected during this biennium.

Other exemptions cited by Dent include:

All printing equipment, supplies and materials, "except," Dent said, "those used by little people;" building foundations for productive machinery and equipment; trailers and semi-trailers used to move material-in-production from one manufacturing unit to another and all property purchased primarily for production use, even though also used in non-exempt activities.

Dent said the penalty for evading payment of the tax would also be dropped in the amended version, and that appeals for refunds would be made directly to the Board of Finance and Revenue, rather than through the Revenue Department as at present.

Dent earlier charged that the Republicans, with two of their elected officers slated to sit on the board in June, were trying to take over control of the board by pushing through legislation which would authorize the state treasurer as board chairman to appoint a board secretary and prescribe regulations for the board's operation.

At present the board employes are elected by the entire five-man board.

Three board members are appointed by the governor. The state treasurer and auditor general also serve by virtue of their elective posts.

District Students Taking Part in Band Festival

Two district students have been chosen to represent their schools at the all Western Pennsylvania Band Festival on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Wilkinsburg High School.

Daniel Matianski, clarinetist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Matianski, of 138 East Schoonmaker avenue, will represent Monessen High School and Jack Kuhn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kuhn, of Belle Vernon R. D. 2, will represent Rostraver High School. He plays first trombone in the band and sings bass in the chorus.

Both students are seniors and were chosen in competition conducted at the recent District Band Festival held at Uniontown.

Al G. Wright, director of bands at Purdue University will serve as guest conductor for the affair and there will be 225 students in the band.

During the three day stay in Wilkinsburg the students will rehearse a program for public concerts on Friday and Saturday nights in the auditorium.

Host for the festival will be Richard Camp.

Feast of Purim To Be Observed Here Saturday

An ancient festival of the Jewish Calendar, the Feast of Purim—sometimes called the Feast of Lots —, will be observed by Monessen residents of Jewish faith beginning at sundown Saturday.

The day commemorates the deliverance of the Jewish people from the tyrant Haman more than 2,300 years ago.

The entire story is found in the Bible. It is the reading of that story, the Book of Esther, that forms the main part of the religious service connected with the festival.

In Monessen, a special Purim service will be conducted by Rabbi Theodore Stampfer at Kneseth Israel Synagogue at 7:30 Saturday evening. The Scroll of Esther, usually referred to as the Megillah, will be read by Rabbi Stampfer.

A second service will be held Sunday morning beginning at 9:15.

Another part of the celebration will be "A Purim Masquerade" program presented by children at 10:15 a. m. Sunday.

The story of Purim teaches that good triumphs over evil and that freedom from persecution comes to those who have faith.

Erie Mayor Slated To Answer Questions

HARRISBURG (UP) — Mayor Arthur Gardner of Erie and several state officials were slated to testify today at the resumption of hearings by a special legislative committee investigating clemency granted by the state Pardons Board to several former Erie officials involved in the city's 1954 bribe scandal.

Gardner was to appear at the request of state Attorney General Thomas D. McBride, a member of the board and its legal counsel during the investigation.

McBride reported that he would also call board members Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman and Commonwealth Secretary James A. Finnegan to testify today.

The committee seeks to determine the circumstances surrounding the commutation granted former Erie Mayor Thomas J. Flatley, whose 18-month jail term for conspiracy and violation of oath of office was reduced on the board's recommendation to 11 months and five days.

The board originally commuted Flatley's sentence to one year, which would have permitted his release Jan. 10, 1956. Upon receipt of several appeals for his release in time for the Christmas holidays, the board "reconsidered" its order and changed it to permit his release Dec. 15, 1955.

The commutation order and the official recommendation to Gov. George M. Leader, dated Oct. 4, 1955, both bear signs of erasure and alteration of the commutation date.

A former Erie Times editor, Harold J. Sullivan, told the committee last week that he was called by Mayor Gardner the day after Gardner's election in Nov. 1955 and that Gardner asked his opinion as to what public reaction would be in the area upon Flatley's release.

Sullivan told the committee that Gardner said Gov. Leader, in a telephone call to congratulate him upon his election, asked the mayor to check on community feeling in the Flatley case. Sullivan said he told Gardner that public reaction would be "favorable."

Denied Phone Call

Both Gardner and Gov. Leader denied the phone conversation.

Also to appear today, at the request of committee counsel David Kohn, were Erie County judges Elmer Evans and Burton R. Laub.

Committee members said Tuesday that they expect to wrap up public hearings on the Erie County cases and then turn their attention to others.

The committee still has not touched on the case of David Darcy, the Philadelphia youth whose death sentence for the slaying of a bystander during a tavern holdup in Bucks County in 1947 was commuted to life imprisonment last September, after several unsuccessful appeals to the courts and to the board.

A resolution adopted in the Legislature in January charged that "the opinion prevails in many quarters that political considerations influenced" the board action in the Darcy case and several other recent cases.

The committee is scheduled to report to the Assembly early next month.

Meanwhile, state Sen. Israel Stifel (D-Philadelphia) introduced legislation to create a special board to investigate petitions for pardons and commutations brought before the state Pardons Board.

Stiefel proposed a five-member Board of Evaluations, which would reduce the Pardons Board's reliance on the recommendations of judges, district attoneys, and others.

The board would be empowered to "make an independent study and investigation of the circumstances surrounding petitions" to be used by the board in conjunction with the recommendations presented at the board hearing.

Stiefel said the board members should be "well paid," and he proposed salaries of between $7,500 to $8,000 a year.

Nixon Wants U. S. Air Base From Selassi

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UP) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon left by plane today for Khartoum, capital of the Sudan, which recently won its independence from British and Egyptian rule.

While in Addis Ababa he conferred with Emperor Haile Selassi on American aid for Ethiopia, development of the Nile River, economic and military problems and general questions such as the American attitude toward supporting the independence of African nations.

Nixon told a press conference that Africa is increasingly becoming an "economic and ideological battleground" between Communism and the free world and called on the United States and other free nations to help the African nations win independence.

With CSTC Players

Enacting roles in the California State Teachers College Players production of "Our Town", which is being staged tonight through Saturday in Steele auditorium, will be two local students, Harry Myrga and Karl Wendelin.

The Thornton Wilder play is under the direction of Louise Davis with Jacquelne Staney as student director, Gary DiMarchi and Robert Menarcheck, assistant student directors.

Myrga, son of Mrs. Jolanna Myrga, 427 Donner avenue, will play the part of Joe Crowell. He previously portrayed "Nickey" in the production of "Bell, Book and Candle" and is a member of Alpha Psi Omega and Phi Sigma Pi. Now a junior in the elementary curriculum majoring in speech correction he was graduated from Monessen High School in 1954.

Wendelin will be seen in the role of Mr. Webb. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wendelin, of 613 Summit avenue, and is a sophomore in the secondary curriculum.

Active in college activities, Wendelin is president of the Poetry Seminar and a member of Alpha Psi Omega and Phi Sigma Pi, honorary fraternities. This year he portrayed "Macbeth", "Richard II" and directed "Bell, Book and Candle". Last year he had leading roles in "The Wedding", "She Stoops to Conquer" and was director of "Oklahoma". He is a graduate of Monessen High School and appeared in the senior class play, "You Can't Take It With You" in 1955.

Oct. 7 — Last day for persons to give notice of moving from one address to another within the same election district.

Nov. 5 — Municipal election.

Gulf Oil Corp. Board Chairman Retires April 23

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Sidney A. Swensrud will retire as chairman of the board of Gulf Oil Corp. April 23, the end of the current corporate year.

A veteran of more than 30 years in the oil business, Swensrud said he is quitting business to devote more time to his civic and other interests.

He is chairman of the Public Auditorium Authority, which will build a large civic arena on the edge of the Pittsburgh downtown district, and an executive committee member of the Allegheny Conference on Community development which is directing Pittsburgh's redevelopment.

With the resignation of Swensrud, Gulf will discontinue the office of board chairman. W. K. Whiteford, Gulf president will take over duties as chief executive officer.

Swensrud entered the oil business in 1928 with Standard Oil Company of Ohio and later became executive vice president of the firm. In 1947, he joined Gulf as executive vice president. Six years later he was named to his present post.

ADMITS KILLING — Luis Fenton, Jr., 33, the travel agent who admitted he and a boatman beat two wealthy New Yorkers to death with oars and robbed them and threw their bodies into the bay, is shown (seated) during questioning in Acapulco. Victims were Attorney Joseph Michel, 70, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 63.

Leader Asking Civil Service For 24,000

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today asked the General Assembly for legislation granting permanent civil service job protection to an estimated 24,000 Commonwealth employes.

Leader, in a special message to the lawmakers, said his administration has brought nearly 10,000 persons under civil service by executive board action.

"But what one executive board can do, another can undo," he said. "Consequently this administration now seeks legislation confirming the executive board's action and bring civil service protection—by statute law—to the essential career personnel of the Commonwealth."

The governor said he wanted technical and professional personnel "selected by merit and protected in their careers." He said the state has numerous technical and professional jobs vacant although salaries are on a par with competing agencies because of the lack of job security.

"It is to these specialists, skilled in technology and the professions, that government must look for its hard core of competence, its unbroken continuity over the years," Leader said.

Twice Was Enough

BRISTOL Tenn. (UP) — Ralph Feathers says he was not trying to prove that "birds of a feather stick together" when he had to be rescued twice from his burning feather bed. Mrs. Christine Moore said she aroused Feathers after smelling smoke. Mrs. Moore helped Feathers put the fire out. Later, Joe Rudder also smelled smoke and burst into the apartment to find Feathers again snoring away in his feather bed. Cause of the second fire was blamed on smoldering feathers.

Ike Wants no Cuts in School Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has informed Congress he wants no cuts in his multi-million-dollar school construction program, it was learned today.

This word was relayed to key House members considering the President's $1.3 billion school bill. It calls for spending $325 million a year for four years to build classrooms.

The President's stand knifed into an economy wave that broke on the White House doorstep today.

A "Must" Resolution

House Democrats, by a thumping 219 to 178 majority, pushed through a resolution late Tuesday declaring substantial cuts "must" be made in Mr. Eisenhower's $72 billion budget and calling on him to say where they can be made.

The resolution does not have to be acted on by the Senate and has no legal standing. Its effect is to put the House on record.

Despite Republican cries of "buck - passing," Democrats expected the President to come through with an answer soon.

He was to have an opportunity to comment at his news conference today.

But the Democrats did not plan to wait. The House took up an appropriation bill for the White House and several small federal agencies with Democrats set to ram through a 23 per cent slash — $4.9 million — recommended by the appropriations committee.

Cutting Fever Spreads

As budget-cutting fever spread over the capital, there were these other developments:

—The administration warned it may cut back public works projects because of rising construction costs. The warning came from reclamation Commissioner W. A. Dexheimer, who told contractors to "sharpen your pencils" or "you may kill the goose that lays the golden egg."

—A House subcommittee opened an investigation of administration plans to add 73,000 employes to the federal payroll. Agriculture Department officials were called to "justify" a proposed increase of 20,000 employes in their department.

—The "conference" of all Republican senators adopted a resolution Tuesday night calling on Congress to "reduce the budget wherever possible consistent with the security of the national defense and the essential functioning of the government." No figure was mentioned.

No Cause for Alarm

DETROIT (UP)—A furry little skunk holed up under a car Tuesday and held off 10 policemen until a Canadian cougar hunter came to the rescue. Things remained stalemated until hunter Jack Bradley, 42, came along. Bradley took a long look at the skunk, said it was descented, grabbed it and turned it over to the grateful police.

Red China Wants Recognition By U. S. More Than UN Seat

By WENDELL S. MERICK

HONG KONG (UP) — Recognition by the United States is far more important to Communist China than admission to the United Nations.

Some Western diplomats, as a matter of fact, are not at all convinced that Peiping wants membership in the U.N. just yet. Such membership, they theorize, might prove embarrassing at times to the Red regime.

To start with, U.N. membership would not automatically insure recognition by the United States. But U.S. recognition almost certainly would result in quick admission to the U.N.

Further, admission to the U. N. might not dissolve the Nationalist regime on Formosa. There exists the possibility of "two Chinas" sitting in the world body.

Fear U.N. Debate

The big danger to Peiping's campaign to gain ideological control over Southeast Asia — the Reds' foremost aim after Formosa—would be that in any debate in the U.N., Communist China would have to stand up and be counted.

There could be no double-talk as emerged after the Hungarian and Polish revolts on the rights and wrongs of Russian intervention. As things stand now, Peiping can hedge in condemning one side or the other.

This is especially important in Peiping's relations in Southeast Asia.

During 1956, it became apparent that the Communists had revised somewhat their plans to subvert countries in that area. The first step seemed to be aimed at creating a gulf between Southeast Asian nations and the United States, even at the risk of having Communist elements further suppressed.

The reasoning would seem to be that once Asian countries disengage themselves from U.S. influence, Communist influence would eventually increase.

"Peaceful" Subversion Torpedoed

This "peaceful" subversion, however, would have been torpedoed had Red China been obliged to stand up in the U.N. and vote with Russia against any condemnation of Soviet intervention in Europe.

To Asian nations, such an act would have been a declaration of Peiping's willingness to duplicate such intervention in the Far East if similar conditions existed—for example, in Thailand's recent crisis, or in Indonesia or South Vietnam.

As long as Red China is barred from the United Nations, Peiping's propagandists can create a picture of martyrdom which can draw sympathy from neutral countries.

However, if the U.N. should vote to seat Peiping in place of the Nationalists, the Communists naturally would jump at the chance, for this would scuttle Taipei's influence in Southeast Asia among overseas Chinese.

But if there were two Chinas, then Peiping's reaction likely would be different.

Peiping may be thinking, however, that without U. S. recognition, it is doubtful, at least for the time being, of the Nationalists being excluded from the world organization.

Summed up, informed diplomats believe, the lack of U.S. recognition and U.N. membership has not hurt Peiping too much. In some ways, it has been a help.

GHANA JOINS U. N. — Bertha Delhaye puts the finishing touches on a new flag made for the new State of Ghana, created from what was the British Dependency of Gold Coast, Africa. The flag has green, yellow and red stripes with a black star in center. At bottom, Seth Anthony, Sr., Assistant Secretary of the new African State of Ghana, addresses the U. N. General Assembly in New York after his country had been formally admitted as the 81st member of the United Nations.

More Candidates File Petitions In Washington

Three more candidates for nomination for Washington County offices filed petitions yesterday and another candidate appeared over the weekend in the Democratic jury commissioner race.

James O. Roupe, warden of the Washington County jail for 16 years before his ouster last year, filed petitions for the Democratic nomination for controller.

James Bongiorni, of Washington, filed for the nomination for sheriff, joining C. O. (Lefty) Williams, Denbo, who had filed earlier.

Inez Donaldson, of Dunlevy, filed petitions in the Democratic jury commissioner race where indications are there will be a large field.

The newly announced candidate is Canton Township Supervisor George W. Vitteck, a Democrat, who said he was also circulating petitions in the jury commissioner race.

Candidates have until next Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. to file petitions.

Pennsy to Use Daylight Time

NEW YORK (UP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that it will switch its entire passenger operation to daylight saving time this year with the majority of its customers.

The road said it is the first major long-haul railroad to make the switch. Some of its service area will remain on Standard Time but the road said it believed the switch will result in "thel east inconvenience for the greatest number" of passengers.

The railroad will change not only its clocks but its timetables, adding Standard Time designations in addition for timetable points which don't use Daylight Time.

The road pointed out that the railroads set U.S. time zones in 1883 was later adopted by the federal government and all states and municipalities.

The Purpose of Our New Road

AN ORGANIZED effort continues to be made by some property owners and business interests along the uncompleted Turnpike spur, part of which is now marked as Route 71, to change the designation of this road by federal and state officials as a "limited access" highway.

Although such a change would be contrary to the whole philosophy of highway planning on which this road has qualified for federal funds, the pressure campaign to bring about the change and open this important new throughway to unrestricted commercial development is continuing.

We do not think this pressure can succeed. If the responsible highway authorities, state or federal, were to make this anything but a "limited access" road, they would let themselves in for similar pressure with respect to other throughways. And the whole system of major connecting highways which is being planned to save the nation from its traffic bottlenecks would be virtually destroyed.

This has already happened to some fine roads in this area. Route 51 to Pittsburgh, for example, has become a veritable midway for much of its length, and what should be a swift, 50-mile-an-hour, virtually non-stop passage right to the Liberty Tubes is actually a slow-motion, in-and-out, stop-and-start obstacle course.

The same thing is happening to McKnight Road, north of Pittsburgh. This, too, was designed as a highspeed, four-lane throughway. But it is rapidly being turned into a concessionaire's dream by the installation of every sort of commercial enterprise from multi-million-dollar shopping centers to soft ice cream stands. And the forgotten man once more is the motorist or truck driver who wants to get in or out of Pittsburgh and whose needs the highway was designed to serve.

* * *

THE PEOPLE of this area should not allow this to happen to the Turnpike spur. This road has been planned as a high-speed link between this corner of Pennsylvania and the Turnpike. As such, it will give the people of the Monongahela Valley and their industry and commerce an invaluable transportation facility. And it is only on this basis that the new highway can justify the millions and millions of dollars it is costing the taxpayers.

It would be wasteful and foolhardy to allow special interests to cash in on the peoples' investment, which is exactly what is being proposed by those who object to the "limited access" designation. If they get their way they will turn a safe, 50-mile-an-hour throughway into a dangerous, frustrating bottleneck.

We think it would behoove the Chambers of Commerce and the public officials of this area, as well as private citizens, to let the proper highway authorities know that they want the new road to serve its intended purpose. And it can only do that if access to it and egress from it are carefully restricted to properly spaced intersections.

Col. Nasser Again

ANYONE who thought the troubles of the Middle East would begin to fade away once the Israelis were persuaded to return to their own boundaries doesn't know much about the troubles of the Middle East. Nor does he know much about Colonel Nasser, the Egyptian dictator.

Nasser, whose government couldn't put up even a half-hearted defense of the country when Israel attacked, is now bold and brave once more — with the United Nations Emergency Force in front of him. And he proclaims that, the UN to the contrary, Egypt will immediately resume control of the Gaza Strip.

This is a characteristic piece of Nasserism. It reveals — if anyone had any lingering doubts about it — that Nasser is a calculating opportunist, interested in neither the orderly development of his own people or in the peace of the Middle East but only in the development of Nasser as the mogul of the Arab world.

But this is just another of the nettlesome facts of the situation with which the United States and the other responsible leaders of world opinion must keep on trying to deal as patiently and as constructively as they know how.

It may be helpful, however, to let the Egyptian Colonel understood as soon as possible that our patience has some limit and that, while we respect Egypt's sovereignty and understand the needs of its people and want to be helpful in meeting those needs, still we are not required endlessly to put up with trouble-making schemes and devious maneuvers. Colonel Nasser, in other words, can go too far.

Behind The News—

New Polish Regime Is In Trouble

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka appears to be in serious trouble.

His independent Communist regime is under attack by Polish Reds who oppose his breakaway from Soviet Russian domination, by Polish non-Communists and by Moscow propaganda organs.

Mr. McCann

At the same time, the negotiations in Washington for economic and financial aid which would strengthen him in his fight for national independence are bogging down.

It is too early to say that Gomulka's control of the Polish Communist party and government is in actual danger. But it could be before long if the present situation continues.

Two-way Difficulty

It is increasingly evident that Gomulka is having difficulty in both maintaining his present independence and in avoiding an open break with the Russians.

One big reason is that Soviet leaders are fully aware now of the danger that any move toward independent Communism presents to their domination of Eastern Europe.

Another reason is that strong elements in Poland, both Communist and non-Communist, want Gomulka to take an even more independent attitude.

One result of the situation is that Gomulka and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz have been compelled to restore to government jobs most of the Stalinist leaders who fought Gomulka's return to power last October during the surge of revolt in satellite counties.

But Gomulka and Cyrankiewicz are being attacked also by those Poles who want him to go farther toward independence.

Premier Denounced

Cyrankiewicz was openly denounced in the Polish Parliament on Feb. 27 by Antoni Wojtysiak, a non-Communist who is also director of the agricultural college at Breslau—or Wroclaw, as the Poles call it—in Polish-occupied Eastern Germany.

Wojtysiak said that Cyrankiewicz was responsible for all the abuse of power by the Communists during Josef Stalin's dictatorship.

Some members angrily tried to shout Wojtysiak down. Others applauded him. It was necessary to suspend the session for 10 minutes.

On March 1, eight leading editors and writers of Trybunu Ludu, the newspaper organ of the Polish Communist Party, resigned in protest against the policy of the ruling Politburo. These eight men resented what they regarded as a trend toward a new Stalinist policy.

U.S. Invited Talks

The Washington negotiations were invited by the United States which thought it wise to strengthen Gomulka by relieving Poland's economic difficulties.

But the negotiations have run into a snag. For one thing, the so-called Battle Act passed by Congress rigidly restricts the giving of aid to Communist countries.

To get around this, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has ruled that Poland is not under Russian domination. That ruling permits some aid. But it also has been found that the government has disposed of most of the farm surpluses which were available to foreign countries.

Gomulka almost certainly will get some help from the United States. It will be nowhere near the $300 million he seeks in economic and financial aid, however.

Revolution Is Material for Two New Books

By UNITED PRESS

The drama of the American Revolution and the afterpiece when the Republic as we know it was formed provide material for two books of history, both of the so called popular variety.

The books in their chronological order are: Rebels and Redcoats" by George F. Scheer and Hugh F. Rankin (World) and "The Men Who Made the Nation" by John Dos Passos (Doubleday), another of the Mainstream of America series. Both were written with an eye for general readers rather than scholars, although scholars will be interested and likely critical of both.

"Rebels and Redcoats" is a fast-moving narrative of the War for Independence from Concord to Yorktown. Much of it is told in the words of participants and eyewitnesses from buck privates to General Washington. Both authors are professionals at writing, Scheer a former newspaperman and Rankin a research associate at Williamsburg, Va.

Twining to Head Staff Chiefs

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Joint Chiefs of Staff were quietly called to the White House last week and officially notified that their next chairman would be Gen. Nathan Twining, now the Air Force chief.

Inside fact is that Twining had recommended his deputy, Gen. Thomas White, for the chairmanship, but the President persuaded Twining to take it himself rather than retire. White probably will replace Twining as Air Force chief of staff.

Mr. Pearson

Originally, Secretary of Defense Wilson wanted to reappoint Adm. Arthur Radford, present chairman, to a third term, but crusty Congressman Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, threatened to block Radford. Vinson told Wilson bluntly it was the Air Force's turn to take the chairmanship. Radford, he said, should step down.

Art and Communism

Rep. Herbert Scudder (R., Calif.) showed concern the other day about a proposal of two Democratic congressmen to have the Commission of Fine Arts approve all designs for federal buildings.

Scudder was worried about "communistic" murals, and though reassured by Rep. Henry Reuss (D., Wis.), he was still skeptical.

"In this planning, I hope you do not desire to have artists get into the picture who will do what they did during the last 20 years. That is, decorate the walls with murals which are very obnoxious to the people in the area.

"In the Rincon Annex post office in San Francisco, it was the policy to paint murals. I had these murals very carefully analyzed by a cartoonist, and part of them was definitely Communist propaganda."

"I am glad that the gentleman from California raised that question," said Reuss, who with Rep. Frank Thompson (D., N. J.) is co-sponsoring the proposal for Fine Arts Commission approval.

"Let me assure him that the chairman of the Commission on Fine Arts is none other than Mr. David Finley, who was Mr. Andrew Mellon's lawyer and confidential adviser for many years. He generally shares the political and social philosophy of the late and revered Andrew Mellon."

Oil Break for Democrat — The big Republican oil companies are getting some nice breaks from the Eisenhower administration, but at least one Democrat is doing all right too. Ed Pauley, close friend and big money raiser for Harry Truman, has secured a guarantee from the U. S. Government that his losses will be reimbursed up to $6,000,000 if he drills for oil in the shaky Kingdom of Jordan, and if Jordan should later expropriate his oil wells. This is about the first time in history an American oil man has secured such a guarantee — especially a Democrat from a Republican administration.

Two Air Force Secretaries — Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, first Secretary of the Air Force, made a strange phone call the other day. He called the present Secretary of the Air Force, Donald Quarles, told him he was planning to make a Senate speech blasting Quarles, then proceeded to read the speech to his intended victim. Quarles argued with Symington over some details and finally persuaded him to tone down the speech. However, Symington still delivered the speech, accusing Quarles of using phony arithmetic in the Air Force budget.

Future Excise Taxes — GOP leaders have advised Ike that Congress will probably repeal the 10 per cent excise tax on theatre tickets, effective April 1 of next year. House hearings will begin in about a month on the repealer bill, which also may knock out 10 per cent excises on cosmetics, toilet articles, and transportation. Small-town theatres hard hit by TV competition are particularly in need of tax relief, the President was told. He said, however, he could not agree to any tax cuts in 1958 until he had an estimate of next year's budget.

Merry-Go-Round

Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin wasn't the only lawmaker who failed to attend the White House reception for Congress. McCarthy wasn't invited. But Roy Wier (D., Minn.), who did receive an invitation, declined in favor of a conservation meeting. He attended the North American Wildlife Conference. . . . Sen. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, featured on the cover of Life this week, has been quietly lining up speaking engagements around the South, which turned against Catholic Al Smith in '28. (Looks as if the 1960 campaign has already started.) . . . . Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has been secretly phoning key Republicans in Congress, trying to block an investigation of the government's monetary policies. The Treasury is now paying twice as much interest on government loans as under Truman. An investigation might be a bit embarrassing.

Fairly Spoken—

And Just How Do You Pronounce 'Tomato'?

By MARGARET LATROBE

When I hear tomato pronounced "to-mah-to" I feel like the Little Match Girl. When someone refers to his dear "Ah-h-nt" Mary I feel like mentioning that mine went to Radcliffe.

Mrs. Latrobe

This is a purely mid-western reaction. Or maybe purely personal, for heaven knows there are plenty of mid-westerners who wouldn't care less how the soup or the relatives are pronounced.

When tomatoes are mentioned, displaced persons from the wide open spaces who find themselves in Ivy League territory can do one of two things — call them "love apples" or order cream of chicken porridge. As for "ahnts" (sometimes called awnts, indicating Baltimore upbringing), the hinterlander does well to stick with the uncles, pretending they were all bachelors. Somehow "aunt" with a flat "a" casts a shadow on the character of otherwise excellent ladies. And since they were ever kind and generous to us, such impugning is unthinkable.

The only word to put these easterners in their place is "pecan." Here is a reversal which lends prestige to his corn belt, of which I was once a member in good standing. Pecans are well thought of along the eastern seaboard, but badly pronounced. The final syllable is a flat "a" the way aunt should be said, but isn't. Rightfully (and Webster and Oxford to the contrary) this sweetmeat so good in southern pies is a "pe-cahn." Shake hands with a girl who has picked plenty of them right off the ground, and therefore is qualified to amend the dictionary. Certain over-educated folk say "peek-an"—which abominable speech we cannot bring ourselves to discuss.

At one point we lived in a Manhattan neighborhood where "to-mah-to" was mandatory in ordering groceries. To have asked for tomaytoes would have sent the bookkeepers straight to the credit bureau for proof of one's ability to pay. The natural stubbornness born and bred in the citizens of my area prevented a cowardly submission to such hifaluting talk. Either we pointed at the red fruit, saying "a pound of those" — or we did without. "Tomahtoes" —

All of which is to explain why eastern roadside markets never have enough tomato plants for gardeners. Hardy phlox, zinnias, lettuces and onions galore — but not tomatoes. "Texas feller just bought my last flat of t'mah-ters," these bewildered horticulturists lament. "Cant understand it . . . show me a customer from the middle West and, sure as shooting, he'll buy up every tomahter plant in sight . . .' Why? Simple. Transplanted tomayto fanciers would rather grow their own than put an "ah" where it doesn't belong. And have you noticed the fondness of Bostonians, now living in Oklahoma, for pecan trees?

National Affairs—

Party Leaders not too Confident About 1958

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Democratic National Committee is circulating a 1956 election autopsy calculated to scare any Democrats who think their candidates should be shoo-ins in future elections.

Mr. Lahr

This document is one symptom of the soul-searching now going on among both Republicans and Democrats about how to approach elections in which the name of Dwight D. Eisenhower will not appear on the ballot.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler told Baltimore Democrats last weekend that their party cannot assume it will win in 1960 just because Mr. Eisenhower will not be a candidate. The same warning was contained in Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy's Life magazine article, in which the Massachusetts senator said the Democrats need new ideas and new faces.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) said in a New York speech Tuesday that the GOP must remember it is "a Republican Party, not an Eisenhower Party."

Aiken said Mr. Eisenhower was elected because of personal popularity and faith among the voters that he could best provide leadership for peace. But Aiken added Mr. Eisenhower could not translate that popularity into victory for other Republican candidates.

The Vermont senator suggested his party needs better public relations and a generally smarter operation at national, state and local levels.

Plan Regional Meetings

The GOP national organization decided this week to hold regional conferences this spring to seek out "grass roots opinions on political issues." This program was intended to provide an early start for the 1958 congressional campaign in which the GOP currently is conceded only a longshot chance to win control of the House and Senate.

The Democratic study, based on the 1956 vote, draws no line between the party's bright prospects in 1958 and the greater uncertainties to be faced in the 1960 presidential election.

It notes the Democratic congressional victory in 1956 has been interpreted as a sign of superior "basic party strength." But it warns of signs the party is losing strength.

The current soul-searching indicates neither party is taking much for granted in preparing for 1958 and 1960.

Kennedy's and Aiken's prescriptions probably will be followed by many other proposals for remodeling the two parties for the political contests ahead.

'Speaking of Beauty'
"What Is the Difference in Permanent Waves?"
James V. Bonafed

WHAT is the difference in permanent waves? Why does one salon wave cost as little as $7.50, another perhaps $25? Will a $20 wave actually make your hair more beautiful than a $10 wave?

**

There's a difference of permanents of widely divergent prices just as there's a difference between a dress that sells for $125 and the copy you can buy for $12.95. Just as the difference in the two dresses lies in the quality of workmanship and fabric, the ingredients used in a $20 permanent are more costly than those used in a $7.50 wave.

**

JUST as the manufacturer of the finest dress uses utmost care in choosing his fabric, cutting and putting together his gown . . . the manufacturer of the costly permanent wave has a staff of cosmetic scientists who spend months, or even years, searching for the perfect combination of high-quality ingredients to give you a more beautiful permanent wave.

**

Perhaps you've heard someone claim the $2 permanent wave package you buy at the drugstore is "just like" the lotion in your beauty salon wave. Don't you believe it! If all permanent waves were "just alike", we would carry only one wave in our salon. We keep a stock of individualized waves, so that we can offer you the one exactly right for your hair condition . . with just the right amount of curl to please you! Each wave is different. One is for you!

**

GIVING YOURSELF a permanent is like making yourself an inexpensive housedress. Maybe it looks "all right" when it's finished . . . but you never feel like a princess when you wear it! The beautiful dress you buy is designed and fashioned by experts. The permanent wave you get at our salon has been formulated by a scientist — and "fitted to you" by our expert beauticians! Henry A. Martin, Attorney
Court of Common Pleas for the County of Westmoreland, No. 323 January Term, 2957.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on the 26th day of February, 1957, the petition of Pasquale Amarosi al. dic., Pasquallo Amarosa, was filed in the above named Court praying for a decree to change his name to Patsy Ambrose.

The Court has fixed Tuesday, the 16th day of April, 1957, at 11:00 A.M. at the Courthouse, Greensburg, Pa., as the time and place for the hearing of said petition, when and where all persons interested may appear and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.

Aliquippa Man Killed in Fall At J&L Plant

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (UP)— Floyd Kemp, 42, Aliquippa RD2, was killed Tuesday night when he fell 100 feet inside a cold furnace at the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

Kemp, a carpenter foreman and the father of five children, was standing on a scaffold atop the inner wall of No. 2 Furnace checking a rebuilding job which had just been completed.

A cable sling gave way, tilting the scaffold, and Kemp apparently slipped through a protective steel railing at the top of the furnace and fell to his death.

nut St., Monaca, also was on the scaffold but was saved from a fall by the protective railing. He suffered a fracture of the right leg and was taken to South Side Hospital, Pittsburgh.

The No. 2 Furnace was taken out of service two weeks ago for the rebuilding job.

Duff Joins Firm

Can Solve Wild Deer Problem

By UNITED PRESS

The problem of deer damage, which has plagued farmers, orchardists and nurserymen for a long time, may be solved. Chemists and wildlife biologists at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the Pennsylvana State University discovered a chemical solution which irritates the deer's sharp sense of smell.

The solution, mixed with water and sprayed in a circle around orchards and fields, discouraged all deer from the areas in which it has been tried.

The chemists said the solution contains Bone Tar oil. They added the solution maintains its effectiveness up to 30 days, except during rain or snow when a more concentrated solution or repeated spraying is necessary.

Other advantages of the solution are that it may be used by itself or mixed with most insecticides, fungicides and weedkillers and will not damage spray equipment. Early experiments showed it was effective against skunk, raccoon, beaver and woodchuck.

Alfalfa

Alfalfa yields averaged 3.9 tons of dry hay per acre for the first year's harvest from alfalfa variety experiments carried out in seven Pennsylvania areas by the Penn State agronomy department.

Penn State extension agronomists reported the lowest yielding variety produced an average of 3½ tons per acre and the highest-yielding produced 4 1-2 tons.

In one plot, where conditions were ideal for planting alfalfa, the highest-yielding variety produced 6.2 tons while the lowest-yielding variety produced 4.7 tons of dry hay per acre, according to the agronomists.

Of nine varieties that were seeded, six were recommended for Pennsylvania. These six varieties averaged almost four tons. The three varieties not recommended averaged 3.8 tons per acre.

Under the ideal conditions, the six varieties averaged 5 1-2 tons to the acre and the three varieties not recommended averaged 4.9 tons.

The agronomists say these figures indicate the yielding capacity of this crop and the importance of using only the high-yielding varieties.

Monongahela Doctors State Vaccine Position

Monongahela physicians yesterday announced their position in connection with the administration of anti-polio Salk vaccine.

They were unanimous on the following program:

1. Each doctor's office will constitute a polio clinic for administration of the vaccine.

2. Parents wishing to have vaccine administered to their children may take the child to their family physician or to a doctor of their choice.

3. The vaccine will be administered free of charge to any child whose parents are unable to pay the fee, and will so certify. This vaccine will not be state supplied, but will be furnished by physicians at their own expense.

4. All others will be expected to pay the usual office call fee of $4. This represents a reduced fee because no charge is made on the vaccine which the physician has purchased himself.

In a prepared statement, the physicians said:

"We believe all medicine is a personal matter and that assembly line methods are detrimental to a patient's welfare."

The title of prime minister of England, although used in 1721, was not recognized until 1905.

GOP Studying Farm Belt for 1958 Campaign

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Republican Party will start organizing for the 1958 congressional campaign by exploring ways to recover its traditional strength in the farm belt.

A meeting of GOP leaders from farm belt states at Omaha, Neb., April 12-13 is the first of a series of six regional conferences scheduled Monday by the national party leadership.

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn said the party is kicking off "the most intensive campaign" in its history to regain control of Congress next year. He admitted it will be "tough" for the Republicans to win.

Democrats agreed with that estimate. Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla), chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, predicted Monday night the Democrats will retain control of the Senate by a "much more substantial" majority than their present 49-47 margin.

Those attending Monday's session were members of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee and the chairmen of the GOP Senatorial and Congressional Campaign committees.

Martins Ferry Plant at Work

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Production was resumed today at the Martins Ferry factory of Wheeling Steel Corp. following end of a week-long strike of 1,700 employes.

Workers started to return after the company and the United Steelworkers negotiated a "satisfactory working agreement" ending the strike Tuesday night.

Leader Telecast Hit By Defense Attorneys In Turnpike Scandal

HARRISBURG (UP) — A charge that a telecast made by Gov. George M. Leader violated the "basic human rights" of 23 persons indicted in the Pennsylvania Turnpike scandal was aired in the state Superior Court Tuesday.

Earl B. Compton, attorney for two of the defendants, argued that if the Leader telecast resulted in infringement of the constitutional rights of those indicted in the case, they should not have to stand trial.

In the telecast the governor disclosed details of the alleged multi-million dollar turnpike swindle and promised that those guilty would be brought to trial. Defense attorneys questioned its possible effect on members of the grand jury who might have witnessed it. The special grand jury, which recommended the indictments, was in the midst of its investigation at the time.

The Superior Court hearing resulted from a motion made by special Deputy Attorney General Vincent G. Panati to quash appeals by the 23 indicted persons from a lower court ruling which refused to dismiss the indictments. If the motion is overruled, then the high tribunal will hear the appeals at a later date.

Panati said the possibility that some of the grand jurors might have witnessed the governor's TV appearance on the turnpike case was "sheer speculation."

He also brushed off arguments by some of the defense attorneys that District Attorney Huette F. Dowling of Dauphin County exceeded his authority when he "charged" the grand jury and explained some points of law.

Attorney William S. Bailey said Dowling's action was unauthorized. He claimed some of the instructions Dowling gave the grand jury were "erroneous."

"It is the judge who is to instruct a grand jury and nobody else," Bailey said. "They (Dowling and Panati) should not have given the grand jury any instructions — particularly erroneous instructions."

Thomas D. Caldwell, who represented two of the defendants, was especially critical of the Leader telecast at a time when the charges made by the administration were under grand jury investigation.

"Suppose a private citizen had engaged in that conduct," Caldwell said. "I leave it to the court's imagination what would have been done to this private citizen. How far are the courts going to permit their system to be intruded upon by another branch of the government. How far may the executive branch of the government go in bringing its weight to bear upon a judicial proceeding."

At the hearing, most of the defense attorneys based their arguments on information which was given the grand jury. Such information is supposed to be kept secret but a copy of the transcript of the grand jury proceedings mysteriously appeared in the public files of the Dauphin County Clerk of Courts shortly after the jury concluded its first phase of the case.

Frank Costello Is Released from Jail

NEW YORK (UP)—Frank Costello was released from prison in $25,000 bail Monday night on order of the U.S. Supreme Court to await a review of his sentence on a conviction for income tax evasion.

The 65 - year - old gambler had served 11 months of a five-year term after his conviction in 1954 for evading $28,532 in income taxes for 1948 and 1949.

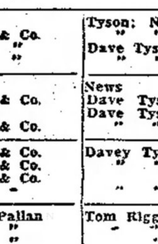
'Playhouse 90' Steals The Hollywood Stars

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—While the movie industry burns, CBS' "Playhouse 90" has been stealing top properties from under Hollywood noses.

Both the public and show business laughed when CBS sat down to try television's first 1½ hour live dramatic show last fall. Yet "Playhouse 90" has not only survived but has been snaring top dramas that the movies are planning to do.



Aline Mosby

Thursday night the highly-rated program will present "The Last Tycoon," F. Scott Fitzgerald's last novel that is being considered by major movie-makers for filming. And "The Helen Morgan Story" will be seen on "Playhouse 90" in May—to the dismay of Warners Studio which is making a much-publicized movie of the same name starring Ann Blyth and Paul Newman.

Fitzgerald fans will be happy to hear from "Playhouse 90" Producer Martin Manulis that his "The Last Tycoon" starring Jack Palance, will stick closely to the book.

"Fitzgerald died before finishing the novel, but he left a lot of notes," explained Manulis. "He apparently planned the ending to include a melodramatic double murder, but Don Manciewitz, who did our script, wrote a different ending."

Procuring the story of blues singer Helen Morgan was an even greater triumph for Manulis. He heard a rumor that Warners Studio "for some reason" failed to nail down the TV rights when it purchased the movie story of Miss Morgan's life.

"I called New York on a Sunday and found out the TV rights were available," said Manulis. "The next day we signed Lulu Morgan, Helen's mother, to give us the story."

The Cookie Crumbled

Miss Blyth and Newman already were in their jazz age costumes doing the movie when they heard CBS would get its story starring Polly Bergen (one of the losing contenders for the movie role on TV first. But, as they say in television circles, that's the way the cookie crumbles.

"Warners wrote me a letter, but there was no question we alone had TV rights," shrugged Manulis.

As in the movie, television's "Helen Morgan Story" will tell of Helen's tragic fight against alcoholism.

Although "Climax!" and other shorter TV dramatic programs regularly sell scripts to the movies, "Playhouse 90" has sold none. Studios, says Manulis, apparently feel if a story has been done in the long version on TV, nothing is left for the screen.

"But I don't agree," he says. "People who see our Helen Morgan Story will still want to see Ann Blyth and Paul Newman in the movie, if anything to see how different their version is from ours. The movies themselves never stop re-making their successful films."

Another forthcoming "Playhouse 90" will present "Goodnight, Sweet Prince", Gene Fowler's book about John Barrymore. Warner Studio soon begins shooting of "Too Much, Too Soon," the life of Barrymore's daughter, Diana.

Duties of Physicians Set Down in New Code

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHAT is your doctor's code of ethics? I'm sure many of you have wondered about this.

While the medical profession has always maintained a high standard of ethics, the code was a century-old document that was wordy and confusing.

Recently, physicians adopted a modernized code of ten principles dealing with protection of patients and society. I think you should be familiar with some of them at least.

The prime objective of the medical profession is to render service to humanity, with full respect to both the dignity of man and the rights of patients.

Physicians must, and do, merit the confidence of those entrusted to their care, rendering to each a full measure of service and devotion.

They should strive continuously to improve their medical knowledge and skill and should make available tht benefits of their professional attainments.

A physician should not base his practice on an exclusive dogma or a sectarian system, nor should he associate voluntarily with those who indulge in such practices.

Except in emergencies, a physician may choose whom he will serve.

Having undertaken the care of a patient, the physician may not neglect him. Unless he has been discharged, he may discontinue his services only after having given adequate notice.

He should not solicit patients.

In the practice of medicine, a physician should limit the source of his professional income to medical services actually rendered by him to his patient.

A physician should seek consultation in doubtful or difficult cases, upon request or when it appears that the quality of medical service may be enhanced thereby.

These are only a few of the countless rules respected by your physician which help him to provide you with the best service possible.

Try It Again

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP)—The radio announcer who once introduced former President Herbert Hoover as "the President of the United States, Hoobert Heever" has a counterpart in the North Carolina House of Representatives. Rep. Joe Hunt Jr. of Guilford County introduced D. Hiden Ramsey, chairman of the state Board of Higher Education, as "D. Riden Hamsey."

Lutes Unhappy over Basketball Showing

Bucky Lutes, who coached the Monessen basketballers in last week's City League tournament at Monongahela, is apologizing for his team's showing. "There's no doubt in my mind that we have as good a team as champion Donora, but lack of participation by a lot of our so-called stars made our showing very humiliating," reports Lutes . . . Incidentally a somewhat similar complaint has been filed by Tony Mascetta, Ozark baseball manager, who is disturbed by reports that city ball players are scattering to other Mon Valley League teams. "Don't they feel any loyalty to their own community?" asks Mascetta . . . There are, of course, two sides to the question. The disgruntled players argue that they are taking their baseball talents where they will be appreciated.

Five high schools will take part in the WPIAL soccer program this season. They are defending champion Monongahela, Bridgeville, Scott Twp., Snowden and South Fayette . . . A couple of former California High products, Ron Novak and John Masaneri, were honored recently as the outstanding gridders at California Teachers last season . . . Speaking of CSTC, the Vulcans are represented nightly at the current WPIAL Basketball Tournament by president Dr. Michael Duda and athletic director Gene Hester . . . Another constant fan at the tourney is Duquesne University coach Dudey Moore.

Sharon's Touted Cagers in Debut

Sharon High's touted basketballers will make their debut in the WPIAL show tonight and anything less than a smashing victory will be considered by the experts as a disappointment. The whispers are increasing that Sharon is the toast of the tournament. The Bengals have two big men and three little speedsters. . . . Did you know that the most valuable player in the 1933 Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament was Ernie Hefferle, Pitt's noted football scout and asistant coach? In those days, Hefferle was an outstanding athlete at Sewickley Twp. . . . Larry Van Eman, a sure-fire All-WPIAL choice from McKeesport, is hitting on 40.3 per cent of his field goal attempts this season.

A fellow who should know claims the start of last week's Monongahela Booster Club basketball tournament was postponed at the last minute to honor a request from Charleroi for the use of the gym as a practice site . . .Penn State's three top basketball scorers will be back next season. They are Ron Rainer, who tallied 377 points the past campaign; Bob Edward, who scored 354, and Steve Baidy, who tallied, 277 . . . Dave Palmer, former Bethlehem Joint pitching standout, will report to the Yankees farm club training site at Hattiesburg, Miss. next week. Palmer compiled an 8-6 record with Quincy, Ill., in the Class B Three-I league last season.

West Newton Shifts Rostraver Game

West Newton High has agreed to shift this season's football game with Rostraver to the Lep stadium. The two school's always split 50-50, so there's no financial problem. Besides the field is not much further from West Newton than the site now used by the Hornets . . . Bucky Grover, former all-around Brownsville High athlete, has organized a junior basketball team which he plans to enter in the Ozarks Tournament here later in the month. Grover has lined up outstanding players from Brownsville, Redstone and California . . . At least six Pirate positions are sewed up, according to insiders. Apparently sure of jobs are outfielders Bob Clemente, Billy Virdon and Lee Walls, third baseman Frank Thomas, shortstop Dick Groat and second baseman Bill Mazeroski.

Today's Sports Parade —

North Carolina Back Home in New York

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—North Carolina's Yankee Tar Heels boasted an unblemished 28 wins in a row today, but for a time as they came "home" to Madison Square Garden they wished they were playing an "away" game in Dixie.

Way down south in the land of cotton, the "Tar Heels" — four from New York and one from New Jersey — breezed to 27 in a row and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship this season.

But as the North Carolina five played before their mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers in the NCAA regionals against Yale Tuesday night, they had a hard time getting started.

They Were Tight

In the parlance of North Carolina Coach Frank McGuire — another New Yorker — they were "tight before the home folks."

There was more to it than that, if the truth be known. The customers couldn't be blamed if they thought Yale was North Carolina and vice versa. Dixiecrats in the gallery had a tough time deciding on their loyalties.

First of all, there were all those Yankees in Carolina colors. On the Yale side of the ledger, the Bulldogs had the only southern starter on the floor. He was a blond Floridian named Tom Sargent. And to make it worse, he was aided by a riotous redhead named John Lee, who just might have been kin to Old Marse Robert.

Lee A Headache

Sargent was the Yale play-maker and Lee was pumping them in from the outside with the unfailing accuracy of a blue-pick hound on the trail of a Carolina coon. Lee was such a headache that, when he finally fouled out, all the Yankee Tar Heels rushed over to pump his hand in congratulatory relief.

But the Carolina carpetbaggers had too much for the champions of the Ivy League. Col. Lennie Rosenbluth, pride and joy of North Carolina by way of the Bronx, upheld his All-America rating by scoring a leading 29 points in Carolina's 90-74 triumph.

Colonels Pete Brennan and Joe Quigg, a pair of Carolinians from the Bronx — the south of the Bronx, that is — suh — helped wear down the Ivy League opposition. Col. Bob Cunningham, a grits and gravy guard from Manhattan, could be toasted in the best corn available for his part. And Col. Tommy Kearns, out of Bergenfield, N. J., was a stalwart in the true traditions of Dixie.

The barbecue originated in the south and was popular in Virginia prior to 1700.

John Hayduk

MHS Baseball Coach to Greet Candidates Today

Baseball aspirants at Monessen High will get together with their new coach this afternoon for the first time.

John Hayduk, who has succeeded the resigned John Harhai, has called a "get-acquainted" session to officially open the 1957 diamond campaign.

During the meeting, training procedure will be discussed.

Tomorrow and Friday, Hayduk plans to have his pitchers and catchers work out at the MHS gym. Then on Monday, the entire squad will move outdoors at Ninth Street Park, weather permitting.

Hayduk, who taught school at Vernon Junior High until moving to Monessen a couple of months back, is not familiar with any of the returning Greyhounds.

That isn't much of a problem though since the only regular back from last season is Carl Crawley.

Thus Hayduk will be starting from scratch.

So far the Greyhounds have lined up one exhibition game. They will meet McKeesport on March 28.

Claims Cards Are Improved Over Last Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., (UP)—Agreeing with those who pick his Cardinals as the most improved in the National League, Manager Freddie Hutchinson pointed to centerfield today and said it "is the only hole on this team."

"Of course," Hutch said, "We could use another 20-game winner on our pitching staff, but I'm not worried about that. Centerfield is the big problem. I have fellows who can do the job in the field, but so far I've seen there's no indication that they will be able to hit as they should.

Bobby Del Greco, obtained from the Pirates, played centerfield most of the time last year but hit only .214.

Two Other Candidates

Hutchinson has two other candidates—rookie Bobby Gene Smith up from Houston where he hit .299 and Chuck Harmon, a .360 hitter with Omaha last year.

Harmon, who didn't make the grade with the Red Legs, will be given "a long, good look," Hutchinson said, adding that "the guy never really has had a chance in the majors because he never got to play full time."

"You can't tell what a player can do until you put him in there every day," Hutchinson added. "I'm not saying I am going to do that with Harmon, but he's got to get a chance to show me he is worth trying out that way."

Donora Woman Heads League

Helen Paro, of Donora, has been elected president of the Mon Valley Ladies Bowling League.

Other officers for the 1957-58 season are Martha Venturini, Masontown, vice-president; and Raquel Kroskie, Monessen, secretary-treasurer.

The league's annual banquet will be held June 12 in the Charleroi Elks Club.

Canisius Eliminates West Virginia, 64-56

By NORMAN MILLER

The 1957 NCAA basketball tournament was sticking mighty close to its tradition of "no Cinderella champion" today as top-ranked North Carolina paced the advance into Friday's second round.

There wasn't an upset to be found in six first-rounders played Tuesday night at three different sites, or in the other first-rounder played Monday night. Now the deck is cleared for these pairings in the four "regional" eliminations starting Friday night:

At Philadelphia: North Carolina (28-0) vs. Canisius (21-5); Syracuse (17-6) vs. Lafayette (22-3).

At Lexington, Ky.: Pittsburgh (16-9) vs. Kentucky (22-4); Notre Dame (19-7) vs. Michigan State (15-7).

At Dallas, Tex.: Oklahoma City (18-8) vs. St. Louis (19-7); Kansas (21-2) vs. SMU (21-3).

At Corvallis, Ore.: California (20-4) vs. Brigham Young (18-8); Idaho State (25-2) vs. San Francisco (18-6).

Tar Heels Start Slow

North Carolina overcame what Coach Frank McGuire called its "worst first half of the season" to down Yale, 90-74; Canisius took advantage of West Virginia's "jitters" for a 64-56 win; and Syracuse staged an amazing rally to beat Connecticut, 82-76, in first-rounders at New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

At Columbus, Ohio, pint-sized Don Hennon's 31 points led Pittsburgh to an 86-85 win over Morehead and Notre Dame led all the way to down Miami of Ohio, 89-77.

At Oklahoma City, Oklahoma City U. avenged a regular-season loss in whipping Loyola of New Orleans, 76-53. The Monday first-rounder saw Idaho State beat Hardin-Simmons, 68-57, at Pocatello, Idaho.

North Carolina ran into an inspired team in Yale's Ivy League champions and were held even for 30 minutes. Then the taller Tar Heels pulled away from the worn-out Elis as All-American Lennie Rosenbluth took scoring honors with 27 points to 25 for Yale's Johnny Lee.

Mountaineers Out-rebounded

Here's how the other first-rounders shaped up:

At New York: Jittery West Virginia lost its game to Canisius in the first half when it sank only eight of 33 shots and was out-rebounded, 35-14. Canisius led, 34-18, at halftime as West Virginia's All-American Hot Rod Hundley had scored only four points. West Virginia closed to 52-50 later, and Hundley wound up with 17, but Canisius had enough left for a strong finish. Syracuse trailed Connecticut, 65-55, with eight minutes left, but put on an all-court press and ran away from the badly-rattled U-Conns: Gary Clark had 26 points and Vinnie Cohen 23 to pace the Upstate New Yorkers.

At Columbus: Notre Dame zipped to a 12-4 lead in the opening minutes against Miami of Ohio and led the rest of the way. Tom Hawkins of the Irish and Wayne Embry of the Redskins had 25 points each. Five-nine Hennon of Pitt, in addition to scoring honors, set up the game's key basket by John Laneve with 55 seconds remaining. Whistles were tooting all the time and 97 free throws were attempted by the two teams. Steve Hamilton led Morehead with 22 points.

At Oklahoma City: The home team, favored by 15, rushed to a quick 18-7 lead and romped home. Loyola settled for individual scoring honors as Pete Gaudin tallied 31, while six-10 Hubert Reed led Oklahoma City with 24.

Extend Deadline For Ozark Tourney

The deadline for entering the Ozarks Basketball Tournament has been extended to midnight Sunday.

Tourney Director Tony Mascetta said the deadline was moved back at the request of several entries.

The big basketball show will begin next Tuesday at the Monessen High gym.

MHS Volleyball Team Romps at Bentleyville

Greyhound Spikers Have No Trouble in Mon Valley Event

Monessen High's 1957 volleyball edition had no trouble winning the Mon Valley Tournament at Bentleyville last night.

The Greyhound spikers, coached by John (Corky) DeMillion, worked up a sweat in just one game. Otherwise, they toyed with their foes.

Monessen opened the tournament by polishing off Ellsworth, 15-0 and 15-9. The Greyhounds followed with easy 15-4 and 15-4 verdicts over Plum.

In the title round, DeMillion's boys ran into a little trouble before handling Waynesburg, 15-13 and 15-1.

Other Matches

In other tourney matches, Plum Twp. took Charleroi, 15-11 and 15-8, while Waynesburg bested Bentleyville, 15-13, 12-15 and 15-13. That latter bout was the most exciting of the evening with Waynesburg rallying from a 12-0 deficit to win the first game.

Last night's action served as a tune-up for the WPIAL show at North Braddock Scott on March 22. Monessen is the defending WPIAL and state champion.

DeMillion said he was pleased with his team's showing at Bentleyville. The only thing to cause concern was the play of Carl Crawley, the team's only returning regular.

Not Recovered

Crawley doesn't appear fully recovered from an auto accident a few weeks back. He was good enough at Bentleyville, but still off his usual form.

However DeMillion feels his big boy wil be ready in time for the WPIAL event.

Other members of the team all lived up to expectations.

No less than ten players alternated in the Bentleyville tourney.

Included were Crawley, Tom Churan, Alvin Bost, Jim Baker, George Seleylo, Marvin Scales, C. L. Melenyzer, Terry Troop, Bill Mackinen and Bill Donnell.

Betty Gallas Sets New Ladies League Mark

Betty Gallas stole the show last night in the Ladies City Bowling League, rolling a brilliant 216 game.

That figure topped the previous season high of 215 set by Marie Columbus.

Only two sweeps were recorded during the night. Bryn Mawr blanked Wheaton while Sweetbriar rolled over Rosemont.

In other matches Villa Maria took two from Mt. Mercy, Cedar Crest won a pair from Vassar, Seton Hill topped Wellesley twice and Ladycliff copped a brace from Monte Cassino.

McKeesport High Trips Uniontown In Tourney Play

By UNITED PRESS

Center Billy Pryor scored 24 points, 10 of them in the third period Tuesday night to lead McKeesport to a 61-54 victory over Uniontown in a quarterfinal game of the WPIAL basketball tournament.

A crowd of 4,384 fans, largest turnout at the playoffs to date, saw the game at the Pitt Field House.

McKeesport sewed up the contest in the third period when the Section 6 champions outscored the Section 2 titlists, 13-8. The scoring by periods was 15-15, 18-16, 13-8, 15-15.

Poor shooting at the foul line hurt Uniontown. The Raiders made only eight of 20 free throws, while the Tigers made good on 19 of 25.

McKeesport will meet Ford City in a semi-final game at the Field House Friday night.

Pryor, the big gun for the winners, got his 24 points on seven field goals and 10 free throws. Larry Jenkins led the losers with 22 points.

Another sellout crowd is expected at the Field House tonight when the Sharon Bengals of Section 3 make their first appearance in the tournament in a quarterfinal game with North Braddock Scott of Section 7.

Sharon, which dethroned Farrell, last year's WPIAL and PIAA champions, drew a first round bye.

Pitt Advances in NCAA Tourney

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, a pair of independents, will meet in Lexington, Ky., this weekend with Big Ten co-Champion Michigan State, and host University of Kentucky to determine the midwest regional NCAA champion.

Pittsburgh, which hasn't competed in NCAA tourney play for 16 years, battled a stubborn Morehead College of Kentucky to an 86-85 victory in the first game Tuesday night, which was marked by fouls throughout.

In the second contest, Notre Dame played a straight ball game all the way to blast scrappy Miami of Ohio, 89-77, never yielding the lead.

Friday night's regional play will match the University of Kentucky, Southeastern Conference champions and perennial basketball powerhouse, with Pittsburgh, while Notre Dame will meet Big Ten co-Champion Michigan State.

Winners of the Friday games will meet on Saturday to determine the Midwest Regional champion.

Man-to-Man

Notre Dame will run into strong man-to-man defense when it plays at Lexington against the Spartans, whom the Irish beat by 10 points earlier in the season.

Since then, however, Michigan State took fire in the Big Ten race and went on to show considerable improvement as it topped that conference.

The Panthers defeated Morehead with three starters benched by fouls, staving off a last minute rally by the Kentuckians to gain the margin of victory.

Pudgy Don Hennon paced the Panther attack with 31 points and set up the winning basket.

Volts, Amps in Bowling Sweeps

Volts blanked the Watts and Amps swept over the Ohms in Blooming Mill Electric League bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were Bob McKeever, 210-547; Cy Brown, 178-515; Forrest Loulis, 183-467; Ray Echart, 177-448; Walt Wentzell, 185-441; and Steve Swansick, 167-435.

Standings show Volts, 20-10; Ohms, 16-14, Amps, 15-15; and Watts, 9-21.

Holy Name in Double Victory

Holy Name won two games from Ladies Auxiliary and Slovak Home took a pair from the Christian Mothers in Slovak Ladies League bowling action last night.

Top scorers were Margaret Ellego, 145-371; Mary Hornack, 133-336; Rose Mayerchak, 135-335; Mary Hardon, 117-345; and Marge Check, 119-334.

Standings show Holy Name, 23-7; Slovak Home, 17-3; Christian Mothers, 13-17; and Ladies Auxiliary, 8-22.

Seven More Quints Erased in PIAA Play

By UNITED PRESS

Seven more teams were eliminated from th Class "A" statewide basketball playoffs at the number of survivors dropped to 22 and the list of new district champions rose to four.

At the same time the list of contenders for the Class "B" crown also was reduced to 22 while the number of teams in the Class "C" playoffs was cut to 19.

Tuesday night McKeesport, Altoona, Westmont, Chester, Norristown, Coal Township and Palmerton defeated Uniontown, Portage, Purchase Line, Quakertown, Eddystone, Bloomsburg and St. Clair respectively, in the Class "A" eliminations.

Nether Providence, Darby, Fountain Hill, Duryea and Port Allegany survived in the Class "B" playoffs, winning respectively over Upper Dublin, Bristol, Nesquehoning, Northwest and St. Mary's. Hyndman won the District 5 title by downing Southern Fulton in the only Class "C" game.

Here is how the list of survivors looks now in each class:

Class "C"

District 1—Chester, Norristown.
District 2—Nanticoke, Swoyersville.
District 3 — Reading, Hanover, Boyertown.
District 4—Coal Township.
District 5—Bedford.
District 6—Altoona, Estmont.
District 7—Ford City, Charleroi, Sharon, North Braddock, McKeesport.

District 9—Chicora, Sykesville.
District 10—Northern, Fairview.
District 11—Jim Thorpe.
District 12 — Greene - Dreher, Delaware Valley.

In the Class "A" competition, Coal Township captured the District 4 title by knocking out Bloomsburg, 50-43. The Purple Demons next test will come against either Nanticoke or Swoyersville which meet for the District 2 crown later this week.

Altoona ended Portage's unbeaten string with a 67-57 victory in a District 6 semi-final. Westmont defeated Purchase Line, 73-55, to become the other district finalist.

In Semi Finals

McKeesport's 61-54 victory over Uniontown put the Tigers in the semi-finals of the WPIAL playoffs. McKeesport will meet Ford City in one semi-final while Charleroi will play the winner of tonight's clash between Sharon and North Braddock in the other.

Palmerton entered the finals of District 11 competition by slapping down St. Clair's North Schuylkill League champs, 61-44. The Blue Bombers encounter Allentown at Hershey Thursday night for the district crown.

Here are the scores of the Class "B" elimination games played Tuesday night:

Nether - Providence 58, Upper Dublin 46; Darby 56, Bristol 43; Fountain Hill 64, Nesquehoning 54; Duryea 58, Northwest 48; Port Allegany 62, St. Mary's 59.

Only One Seeded Team Bows Out Of NAIA Show

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Only one seeded team, third-ranked West Virginia Tech of Montgomery, was missing today for the second round of the NAIA basketball tournament.

The 32-team tourney, which opened Monday, has been reduced to 16 for today's eight-game schedule. Quarter-finals will be held Thursday night.

Villa Madonna of Covington, Ky., scored the one upset so far, whipping West Virginia Tech 93-91 Monday.

The scrappy Kentucky Rebels open today's program in an 11 a.m. game with Eastern Illinois of Charleston.

William Jewell provided Tuesday night's thrills with a 70-69 overtime triumph over Adelphi of Garden City, L. I.

Shows Power

Western Illinois showed its power in smothering Southern Arkansas State of Magnolia 101-70. Youngstown (Ohio) College needed a strong rally in the closing minutes to turn back Westmont College of Santa Barbara, Calif., 81-75. Pacific Lutheran outfought a determined Elon, N. C., team 76-61.

Other first round results Tuesday: Stetson defeated Wayne, Neb., 100-84; Tennessee State beat Adrian, Mich., 87-69; Ball State defeated Troy, Ala., 98-70, and Southeastern Oklahoma took Northwest Nazarene 82-58.

12 Point Rally

Second seeded Youngstown College, which meets Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers tonight, needed a 12 point rally in the closing minutes Tuesday night to defeat Westmont College, Santa Barbara, Calif., 81-75, in a first round game.

Youngstown held a 41-40 halftime edge, but the Californians were in front by two points with five minutes left in the game. Then, while Westmont faltered, the hustling Ohioans put on their winning rally.

Brown Hard Pressed to Beat Armand Savoie

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Joe Brown, the little-known lightweight champion of the world, plans to see if he can add a few more non-title victories to his streak of nine straight wins before defending his crown again.

Brown took his ninth in a row Tuesday night with a split decision over Armand Savoie, an obscure and unranked Canadian.

There were no knockdowns, although both fighters were slightly cut. Brown moved in and slugged more often and effectively than Savoie and therefore won the fight in the opinion of Judge Bill Cornelius, who scored it 100-91 for Brown, and Referee Jimmy Webb, who gave it to Brown 99-88.

Judge Joe Lott differed, scoring Savoie 96 to Brown's 95. The United Press scored it Brown 98, Savoie 91.

Greaves Meets Webb Tonight

CHICAGO, (UP)—Spider Webb, Chicago's top entry among middleweight title challengers, seeks his 19th straight ring victory tonight in a 10-round television bout against Wilf Greaves at the Chicago Stadium.

Webb, third-ranking contender for Gene Fullmer's crown, expected to be at least a 4-1 choice to outpunch and outbox the roughhouse Greaves, a last-minute substitute.

Greaves, a 21-year-old native of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, who now makes his home in Pittsburgh, replaced Randy Sandy when the latter turned up with an injured left hand in training.

Pirates Win Fourth Straight in Exhibition; Stuart Hits Homer

By FRED DOWN

The Pittsburgh Pirates are picking up this spring right where they left off in 1956 as the No. 1 surprise team of the major leagues.

With four straight victories, Manager Bobby Bragan's hustlers are the only team still unbeaten in Grapefruit League competition and they're playing no favorites. They've beaten the Philadelphia Phillies twice and the Washington Senators and Cincinnati Redlegs once each.

The Pirates made it four in a row Tuesday when they beat the Redlegs, 6-4, on a two-run seventh inning homer by rookie outfielder Dick Stuart. It was the second homer of the spring for Stuart, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder who walloped 66 homers and knocked in 158 runs at Lincoln, Neb., last year.

Scatter Seven Hits

Roman Mejias, another rookie outfielder who played for Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League last season, helped spark the Pirates with four hits in as many tries. Jackie Brown, Bob Garber and Nelson King combined to limit the Redlegs to seven hits including a homer by Ed Bailey.

A pair of brilliant 1-0 pitchers' duels highlighted the other games played on the fourth day of competition in the citrus circuit.

The Boston Red Sox got six-hit pitching from a quartet of young hurlers and finally beat the New York Yankees when they pushed over a run in the 13th inning.

Warren Spahn, Gene Conley and Red Murff collaborated in a two-hit effort to give the Milwaukee Braves the other 1-0 decision in a nine-inning game with the Detroit Tigers.

Cardinals In Romp

Wally Moon hit a two-run homer and Del Ennis a three-run homer as the St. Louis Cardinals continued their heavy spring slugging with a 12-4 romp over the Kansas City Athletics. The Cardinals broke open the game in the seventh inning when five walks by Wally Burnette and two hits enabled them to score six runs.

Jim Hearn, making his first start for the Philadelphia Phillies, yielded only a homer to Harmon Killebrew during a three-inning stint, to help Mayo Smith's team beat the Washington Senators, 4-2.

The Cleveland Indians scored seven runs in the first inning and went on to wallop the Chicago Cubs, 8-1, behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Lemon, Art Houtteman and Don Mossi. Lemon climaxed the first-inning assault on Don Kaiser with a three-run homer and allowed only one hit in his first three-inning outing of the spring.

Gail Harris' three-run ninth inning homer, his second of the game lifted the New York Giants to a 9-8 decision over the Baltimore Orioles. Rookie Andre Rodgers hit two homers and Red Schoendiest also homered for the Giants, who have won three of their four games.

Miami Tackle Signs with Rams

LOS ANGELES, (UP) — Don Smith, a 230-pound tackle from Miami of Ohio, has signed with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League. Coach Sid Gillman said Smith would be tried as an offensive guard.

Snider Suffers Bruised Knee

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Duke Snider, the National League's home run king, probably will be lost to the Brooklyn Dodgers for a few days as a result of bruised ligaments in his right knee.

Snider suffered the injury when he was struck on the back of the knee by one of Bob Keegan's pitches during the Dodgers' 8-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night. The injury was not considered serious although Trainer Doc Wendler said he doubted whether Snider would play "for several days."

The Dodgers pounded three White Sox pitchers for 13 hits, including a double by Roy Campanella that marked the stocky catcher's first safety of the Grapefruit League campaign.

Forte Named Player of Year By United Press

NEW YORK, (UP)—Columbia's Chet (The Jet) Forte, a littleman who plays basketball in a big way, turned back the clock today by outspeeding the gangling giants of the college game to the 1957 United Press "Player of the Year" award.

The 5-foot-9 pre-medical student, as sound fundamentally but an even better scorer than the solid little men who dominated the early years of basketball, gained the honor by a clear margin in a nationwide poll of 281 sportswriters and broadcasters.

Forte received 63 votes in widely-scattered balloting to win over Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, brilliant seven-foot University of Kansas sophomore, who had 51 votes. Six-five Grady Wallace of South Carolina, the national scoring leader, was third with 35 votes.

The selection of Forte, Ivy League scoring champion, came at the end of a surprising campaign in which he fought right down to the wire with four physical giants for the national scoring championship. He finished with an average of 28.92 points per game and awaited the results of other scoring contenders in post-season tournaments to learn his final standing.

Much Taller

It also followed his selection to the United Press All-America team along with four players from seven to 15 inches taller than he.

On the court, Forte's specialty is a jump shot off "the wrong foot," a maneuver that confuses rivals. He also features speed, playmaking, and a two handed long shot that keeps defenders from backing up to guard against his drive.

In the Swiss Alps there are at least 70 peaks over 10,000 feet high.

Engle to Pilot East Grid Squad

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Charles (Rip) Engle of Penn State University today was named head coach for the East squad for the 33rd annual Shrine East-West football classic, it was announced by Managing Director William M. Coffman.

Coffman said Engle, a member of the last two East coaching staffs, would be assisted by Blanton Collier of Kentucky and Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin.

The West staff of Jack Curtice, Utah; Tommy Prothro, Oregon State, and Sam Boyd, Baylor, was named several weeks ago.

The 33rd shrine game will be played here Dec. 28th.

Nine Pulled from the Sea

BOSTON (UP)—A Coast Guard cutter Tuesday night rescued nine frostbitten seamen from a two-day ordeal in a waterlogged open boat 175 miles at sea.

The men, crew members of the 151-foot coastal freighter Patricia Sweeney of Yarmouth, N.S. drifted helplessly in near freezing temperatures for 44 hours. Their coal cargo shifted and capsized the vessel during a howling gale Sunday night.

They were unable to give a distress signal and barely had time to scramble into their lifeboat before the ship "went down like a stone."

Their open lifeboat, though well stocked with supplies, was partially filled with water from a rain and sleet storm and heavy seas.

The men, all from Nova Scotia on Newfoundland, were picked up by the Coast Guard cutter Castle rock just after dusk. The cutter had left its ocean weather station to tow the disabled Boston fishing trawler Jane B. home when it was spotted by the men.

Dr. Adolph P. Weaver

Special Speaker At Services in Methodist Church

Dr. Adolph P. Weaver, pastor of the Emory Methodist Church, Pittsburgh, will speak this evening in the second of a series of pre-Lenten services at the Fayette City Methodist Church.

Dr. Weaver graduated from Thiel College, Drew University, Drew Theological Seminary, special work in pastoral psychology, Garrett Seminary and Northwestern University.

He served five charges in the Erie conference before transferring to the Pittsburgh conference in 1955. While a student at Grove City College he also served as an exchange minister to England in 1953.

The service will begin at 7:30. Roy Shook, a member of the finance committee, will preside. The regular choir, as well as the Methodist Men's choir, will sing.

There will be an open forum in the lecture room following the service.

Women of Church To Meet Tomorrow

The March meeting of the Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Fayette City Methodist Church will be held immediately following the Thursday evening special service.

There will be no program or worship service as planned, but there will be an important business meeting and a social hour.

Mrs. Oscar Paegart will preside and Mrs. Ben Holliday, Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh and Mrs. William Hicks will be hostesses.

Bomb Threats Disrupt Four Plane Flights

NEW YORK (UP)— False bomb threats disrupted flights of four airlines Tuesday at airports throughout the East.

The phony bomb warnings caused delays in flights of Trans-World, American, United and Delta airlines planes while they were searched in New York, Philadelphia, Newark, N.J., and Jackson, Miss.

Six airborne TWA planes made emergency landings at airports as far south as Baltimore and as far west as Detroit to permit searches.

No bombs were found on any of the planes.

The excitement began when an anonymous caller, sounding like a teen-age boy, told a TWA reservation clerk "There's a bomb on your plane. You had better get it off."

The airline notified authorities at LaGuardia and Idlewild airports in New York, and Newark Airport in New Jersey to hold planes for searching.

Tuesday night, Shirley Mayfield, 25, a reservation agent for American Airlines in Philadelphia, received a telephoned threat from a woman who said she had a "grudge" against airplanes because her father had been struck by one.

The woman said she had planted 12 sticks of dynamite on an American Airlines plane. She said they were set to explode at midnight.

"Which plane is for you to find out," she told Miss Mayfield.

A United Airlines spokesman said a bomb warning also had been received from either a woman or a child caller.

Both American and United airlines immediately grounded all their planes in the vicinity. Thorough searches were made of all aircraft but no explosives were found.

Airlines officials reported they have received about one false bomb threat a month since an airliner was dynamited in Nov., 1955, while en route from Denver to Portland, Ore.

John Gilbert Graham was executed for planting a bomb on the plane, killing 44 persons, including his mother.

TWA planes already in the air when the latest bomb alert was sounded landed at Baltimore, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Boston and Philadelphia.

Where'd They Go

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—A tipsy taxi driver tipped his cab into Biscayne Bay today and then tipped police that two of his passengers were in the vehicle. Police conducted a four-hour search of the bay with the aid of skin drivers. Later, they gave driver Lynn Johnson, 29, a drunkometer test and tipped him into jail after they learned he had let the passengers out earlier.

Your hospital never "goes to bed"

Whether it's a broken leg . . . a ruptured appendix . . . or a race with the stork . . . emergencies don't keep regular hours. So your community hospital must be prepared 24 hours a day, every day in the year, to meet your need.

During the dark of night, when so many other activities stop, your hospital keeps going. Behind doors that never close, trained and skillful hands are busily at work—comforting the uneasy, saving lives, and restoring health.

It takes a great deal of money, and many man-hours and woman-hours of work, for a hospital to maintain this round-the-clock service. But it's a good feeling to know that your community hospital is always "standing by."

And when you need hospital treatment, you'll find Blue Cross also standing ready to help you. The cost of running a hospital must be paid, and if your need is sudden and unexpected, it is doubly reassuring to be able to say, "I have Blue Cross!"

Lutheran Church Society Meets; Hears Program

The Lutie Monath Missionary Society of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church met last Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Ralph LaVella with Mrs. Eleanor Striker as co-hostess.

Mrs. Ruth Speers presented the program topic for March, "The Heart Speaks". Other members having a part in the discussion were Mrs. Anna Cope, Mrs. Mary Vaughan, Mrs. Anna Mary Long, Mrs. Bess Bones and Mrs. Kay Podvia.

The Society voted a gift of money for one layette, to be used for the Lutheran World Relief Program, and also a gift of $10 for Lutheran World Action.

Plans were made to review the book, "The Church in Southeast Asia," on Thursday evening, April 25 in the Parish House.

The next regular meeting in April will be held in the home of Mrs. Margaret Anto with Margaret Bierwirth as co-hostess.

Teacher Resigns School Position

The West Newton Board of Education Monday night accepted the resignation of Richard D. Barclay as teacher of physical education and driver training.

To fill the vacancy, Andrew Yartin was moved from his elementary position at Kerr School on an emergency basis in physical education. Mrs. Hulda Martinelli, of Sutersville, was designated to substitute the remainder of the term for Yartin.

The directors also granted a sabbatical leave for the balance of the 1956-57 school term to Mrs. Vivian Evans. Mrs. Helen Knox, of Greensburg, will substitute during the absence of Mrs. Evans.

Mrs. C. R. Moody is a patient under observation in the Westmoreland Hospital in Greensburg.

Dr. Claude Mitchell is a patient in the McKeesport Hospital where he underwent surgery this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Youngman and family, of Youngstown, O., were West Newton visitors over the weekend They lived in West Newton a number of years ago.

Man, I Live Here

DETROIT (UP)—San Francisco jazzman Turk Murphy was about to drive a truck carrying his band and its instruments on a street closed to commercial traffic when he was stopped by the law. "This is no commercial vehicle," Murphy protested. "This is my sports car, touring car, business car and runabout—besides, I live on this street." The officer permitted him to drive on.

Ike's Team Undergoes Extensive Shuffling

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's administration team has undergone extensive reshuffling since the November elections. More than 20 major posts have changed hands.

So far, the second term turnover has been restricted to the second echelon of policy-making officials. There have been no changes in the cabinet itself, but there may be some coming later in the year.

One official, Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross, quit under fire when congressional investigators frowned at his connection with firms holding military contracts. Others resigned for a variety of personal reasons, such as health or a desire to return to private business. Several simply transferred to other government jobs.

If any of the departing officials quit because they didn't like Mr. Eisenhower's programs of "modern Republicanism," they kept then complaints to themselves. There has been no public indication that policy differences figured in any of the resignations.

Replacements have been drawn mainly from business and law, with a sprinkling of educators and public officials. A number of officials already serving in the administration were promoted to fill vacancies at a higher level.

Nearly half of the going and coming has taken place in two key departments — State and Defense.

Christian A. Herter, former Republican governor of Massachusetts, came in as undersecretary of state to succeed Herbert Hoover Jr. who returned to his California oil business. Hoover hadn't gotten on too well in the diplomatic world.

UAW Charged with Illegal Spending

WASHINTON (UP) —The Justice Department today prepared to renew prosecution of the United Auto Workers union for political campaign spending.

The government charges the union with using its funds illegally by paying from $700 to $2,500 for four political telecasts during the 1954 congressional campaign in Michigan.

President Good Bridge Player

WASHINGTON (UP)—The four men sat around a small table in the second floor study of the White House, their demeanor solemn, their concentration absolute.

Finally one broke the silence.

"Pass," said the President of the United States.

Then the slightest of grins passed over the face of Mr. Eisenhower for he had succeeded again in his favorite tactic of getting his bridge opponents out on a limb. The hand was played in one no trump and the President's opponents went down six tricks — which is about as bad a shellacking as you can take in a bridge hand.

Mr. Eisenhower is so well known as a golfer that it is seldom realized he is not only a far better bridge player than a golfer but that he comes close to the championship class in the card game.

A friend and fellow player of the President was asked by the United Press what kind of game Mr. Eisenhower plays. He told about the no trump hand as an illustration and then went on:

"The President plays one of the best games I've ever seen. He has the three qualities essential for bridge — a mathematical mind, an excellent memory and a complete gift of concentration. I would say he and General Gruenther (who is one of the nation's top players) are of about the same caliber."

Is he an aggressive or defensive bridge player?

"Well, like everybody, he delights in getting a big hand and going to game or slam. But he is the kind of player who gets even a bigger kick out of making the most of poor cards and setting his opponents.

"Some of the people he plays with have the common failing of overconfidence and reading more value into hands than they have— and he is quick to take advantage of it."

Is he a Goren or a Culbertson man?

"Oh, he knows all the widely played systems. But he usually plays Goren because that is what most of us play. He is certainly not a reckless bidder and seldom a psychic bidder."

The President's most frequent bridge cronies are Gruenther; George Allen, William E. Robinson, president of Coca Cola; Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker. They interchange as partners.

State Supreme Court to Meet

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court will open its spring session here Monday with approximately 60 cases scheduled for argument before the seven justices.

No capital cases appeared on th eargument list and only one involved an important challenge to the constitutionality of an act of Legislature.

The constitutional test involves the right of the state Highways Department to declare an existing road a limited access highway without compensation to an adjacent property owner. The case was brought by property owners along the Greater Pittsburgh Airport highway.
